LOW COUNTRIES MASS TROOPS ON NAZI LINE

Frontier Defenses Bolstered in Face of Threatened German Invasion.

By The Associated Press

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 15—Under virtually complete mobilization, the armies of Belgium and the Netherlands were massed today behind frontier defenses to meet the German threat to the low-land neutrality.

Close to 1,000,000 Belgian and Netherlands soldiers were reported already at or ordered to positions along the meandering border—a 500-mile wall through which Germany would have to smash to outflank the British-French allies on the western front. (Germany in the past has denied planning any such maneuver.)

In Belgium, there were disturbing reports of new concentrations of Nazi attack troops, while in the Netherlands, a government communique spoke of certain less favorable symptoms in the international situation."

Belgium Rushes Defense

Belgium bustled about the task of stepping up her defensive power. Throughout Sunday, soldier-laden trucks rolled through Brussels toward the frontier, while passengers summoned officers and men from their homes, churches, cafes and theaters.

The Brussels government put into force "phase D" of her mobilization plan, filling in the ranks of skeleton units with such specialists as machine-gunners, artillerymen and tank drivers.

The final step for complete mobilization would be enforcement of phase E—likely only in event of an actual outbreak of hostilities.

Belgian officials would not disclose the number of men under arms, but under phase D Belgium considers herself on practically a war footing. As if to clear the ground for any eventuality, an exodus of civilians from border provinces was started.

Phases A, B and C of Belgium's mobilization program were effected last September after Great Britain and France went to war with Germany.

The Lowlands' defense measures were characterized in Berlin as "another fear epidemic based on false reports." Informed quarters there said reports of German military moves along the Dutch-Belgian border were "so much nonsense that it is doubtful if an official denial will be issued.")

Informed sources at Brussels said Belgian secret service reports inspired the hurried defense measures and one experienced observer decided that German troops might move within the next few days.

A reliable informant said German aerial operations a week ago included the photographing of important Belgian industrial and defense areas. A German airman who landed in Belgium with motor trouble was said to have carried such photographs.

J. C. CROXTON NAMED TO PROBE OHIO BUC

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15 — The federal social security administration today assigned Fred C. Croxton, former Ohio employment director, to make a survey of recent complaints against the state bureau of unemployment compensation.

Robert C. Goodwin, regional social security director, said Croxton would arrive in Columbus today to "make a preliminary survey to determine if grounds exists for an investigation." Croxton is assistant to the director of the federal bureau of employment security.

If Croxton finds grounds exist for an investigation, the social security board will name a presiding officer to conduct a hearing for both sides and make recommendations.

Marion Church Damaged As Ohio Is Hit By Gale

LANDS ON ISLAND

Four Italian fliers headed by Col. Angelo Tondi (above) who took off from Rome for Patagonia, Argentina, in an effort to better the world's non-stop distance record, were forced down off the Brazil coast today. Col. Tondi often pilots Premier Mussolini's personal plane. (Story on Page 9.)

Part of Lee Street Auditorium Ceiling Falls; Utility Lines Suffer.

Warm breezes from the south Saturday gave way yesterday to powerful gales which swept over Marion and other parts of Ohio, causing widespread damage to buildings, communications and power lines.

The wind reached velocities ranging from 40 to 52 miles an hour in various parts of the state. Unofficial estimates here placed the speed at nearer the top figure.

The wind roared most of the day, bringing with it .52 of inch of rain and .5 of an inch of snow. Temperatures dropped from 47 to 21 degrees, Weatherman Raffensperger reported. A cold wave is due tonight, The Associated Press reported.

Survey of Damage

Aside from scattered damage to lines of the Marion-Reserve Power Co. and Ohio Associated Telephone Co., the most unusual damage reported was at the Lee Street Presbyterian church, where about one-fourth of the ceiling, including rafters, crashed down yesterday afternoon. That section of the church was not in use at the time, the roof having been repaired recently, and no one was in the room, an auditorium.

Officials said the ceiling probably had been under some strain ever since the roof was repaired and that the pounding of the wind gave it the final touch. Some of the pews were crushed under the wreckage and the ceiling of the basement was cracked by the impact of the debris.

All the damage was on the inside of the church. Officials estimated it would cost possibly $400 or $500 to replace the ceiling, but not all this will be blamed on the storm since the congregation had already planned to redecorate the interior of the edifice.

Plans for Services

The ceiling collapsed in the late afternoon. Services will be held in another part of the church until repairs are completed.

Officials were checking up today to determine if their insurance coverage provides for such damage.

The Marion-Reserve Power Co. reported that wind had blown down some lines and poles and in some cases falling limbs and trees had crippled the service. Caledonia village was blacked out for a short time, but service has been restored. Officials said the wind seemed to be the worst yesterday morning. Chief expense to the company was in labor required to put the lines back in shape. At noon today the lines were about normal, they said.

The Ohio Associated Telephone Co. experienced similarly scattered damage, with Nevada village cut off yesterday afternoon. Officials said they expected the lines in the district to be in "pretty good shape" by the afternoon. Damage seemed to center to the west and north of Marion, they said.

In the city proper the wind knocked over several business signs, cracked a few windows and did scattered damage to telephone and power lines.

REDS CONTINUE BOMBING RAIDS

Planes Return Today After Making Worst Attack of War Sunday.

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Jan. 15—The Russian air force, attacking again after unleashing yesterday the worst but some bombs were reported to have fallen in the outskirts.

It was intensely cold and the aerial offensive of the Russian-Finnish war, resumed bombing raids on south Finland today.

Two air alarms were sounded in Helsinki shortly after noon. No damage was reported downtown, Soviet planes flew extremely high.

As a result of yesterday's widespread attack Finns feared that Russian strategy called for a powerful assault on behind-the-lines morale to break military resistance at the front.

Civilians of a score of southern Finnish cities and towns surveyed the ruins of homes and public buildings caught in the sweep of Sunday's far-flung air raids. Fires raged in almost a dozen cities.

In attacks lasting four hours, the Russians dropped hundreds of incendiary bombs and along the Turku-Helsinki railway and elsewhere were reported to have swooped low to attack civilians with machine guns.

A Finnish communique reported that 15 were known dead, "several dozen" wounded and that many private homes were destroyed by fire.

Raids which drove residents of the capital to cover twice during the day killed three persons.

The former residence of the United States minister was damaged by bombs in Grankulla, resort town west of Helsinki, but nobody was injured. The American minister, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, and his entire legation staff had moved a few days ago to larger quarters.

Observers believed the Soviet airmen mistook the legation for a Finnish headquarters.

The new legation here, nearing completion, also narrowly escaped being damaged in Saturday's raid on the capital.

MAN FROZEN TO DEATH IDENTIFIED

Crawford Co. Victim Listed As George Jones, 68.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., Jan. 15—Fingerprints of an aged man found frozen to death Friday near New Washington were identified Saturday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington as those of George Jones, 68.

According to the Washington bureau he had been arrested in 1937 in West Virginia for train riding on a Pennsylvania train. At that time he gave both Kenton and Canton as addreses in Ohio.

The superintendent and assistant superintendent of the Hardin county home came here Saturday and identified him as one of two men who called at the home about two weeks ago. They were given a meal and continued on their way, the home officals said. The officials came in an attempt to identify the man as a missing Hardin county resident, but were unable to do so.

Burial was made Saturday in the Crawford county cemetery.

Scuttled German Liner's Crew Gay During Stop Here

Trains Carrying Seamen to West Coast Halt at Union Station.

Two special passenger trains carrying 510 crew members of Germany's luxury liner, Columbus, scuttled and burned off the American Atlantic coast Dec. 19, halted briefly in Marion shortly after 1 p. m. today, enroute from Ellis Island, N. Y., to San Francisco.

The seaman, traveling in a pair of 10-car trains replete with dining and sleeping facilities, are returning to their home via Pacific route. They had been interned at Ellis Island by immigration authorities since the self-made sea disaster last month.

Upward of 100 spectators were on hand to watch the specials, although there was little advance notice of their scheduled arrival. The trains arrived here about 1:30 and 1:40, changing engines and crews before continuing to the next terminal point at Huntington, Ind.

Captain With Crew

Railroad officials were reticent in giving out information about the trains or passengers. The crew list, however, included Captain Wilhelm Daehne, commanding officer of the Columbus, and other of the ship's officials.

Permission to board the trains was refused and railroad officers prevented spectators from conversing with the passengers. Several local persons, however, managed to exchange greetings with the German seaman. In one instance a Marion man able to speak German talked with a youthful passenger.

The German sailor replied in the affirmative when asked, "Would you rather remain here than go back to Germany?" He gave a similar but more enthusiastic, "Yah!" to the query, "Do you like Hitler." The conversation was cut short with a curt, "Move along," order from a railroad detective.

Eating Turkey Dinner

Another spectator engaged in a brief talk with one of the train's colored porters, an American, who said his passengers, "had been in high spirits". "They's just been served turkey dinners," he replied to a query about the youths, many of whom could be seen seated in the dining cars at their noonday meal when the trains stopped.

Both trains were here for 10 or more minutes while engines were changed and crews replaced. The passengers, most of whom appeared to be extremely youthful, appeared very cheerful. They smiled and waved from their seats in the coaches to spectators.

All of the seamen were dressed in civilian clothes, many of them wearing sweaters, while others

BROMFIELD DECIDES AGAINST CAMPAIGN

Novelist Won't Make 17th District Race.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 15—Novelist Louis Bromfield's on-again-off-again candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congressman in the 17th Ohio district is off again today.

The writer wired his withdrawal and "regrets" to Roe E. Wolfe, Ashland county, O., Democratic chairman who asked him to run.

"Circumstances and obligations beyond my control make it impossible for me to undertake any further responsibilities during the coming year," Bromfield said. "I am unwilling to enter any contest without being able to devote my whole heart and energy to the undertaking.

"I withdraw filled with regrets and deep appreciation of the efforts of all those good friends and fellow Democrats who urged my candidacy. I have reached the decision only after long and careful consideration of the circumstances."

More than a week ago the author wired Wolfe he was willing to accept the invitation to become a candidate for the congressional seat vacated by the death of William A. Ashbrook, Johnstown Democrat. The next day he said responsibilities would prevent his candidacy, but several days later he announced he would run.

In withdrawing, Bromfield expressed hope his district would elect a Democrat "with the interests of party unity at heart," and declared he would "support such a candidate to the fullest extent to whatever capacities I may possess."

A year ago the 1926 Pulitzer prize winner purchased a farm 10 miles from Mansfield, O., after a 13-year residence in France.

BOMB OUTRAGES CHECKED BY ARRESTS IN SEDITION PLOT

FINNISH HELP MEANS STUDIED

President To Send Message to Congress Outlining White House Views.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—President Roosevelt informed congressional leaders today he would send a "communication" to congress shortly on extending aid to Finland.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley told reporters, after an hour and a half conference with the President, that "we discussed the whole situation with reference to Finland, and the President will send a communication to the two houses in the very near future."

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed at a press conference Friday that he had asked congressional leaders of both parties to work out the problem of giving assistance to the Finns. He said the Russian attack on Finland, the destitution of large numbers of persons and the need for maintaining Finnish independence should not be a party matter over here.

Want White House View

Subsequently, both Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and Senator McNary, the Republican leader, told reporters they would not wish to act without the views of the administration. Many legislators of both parties expressed apprehension that a direct loan might involve the United States in the turmoil abroad, and the White House then gave assurances that the President's attitude would be clarified at his weekly conference with Democratic leaders this morning.

Two senators—Adams, Democrat of Colorado, and George, Democrat of Georgia—expressed

V. F. W. PREPARES FOR STATE MEETING HERE

Mid-Winter Session To Be Held Saturday and Sunday.

Committees for the annual Mid-winter conference of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Saturday and Sunday will put the finishing touches on their plans this week. Members of Marion Post No. 3313, with Vane Ireland as general chairman for the conference, are arranging to receive several hundred visitors from throughout the state, in addition to National Commander-in-Chief Otis N. Brown of Greensboro, N. C., Department of Ohio Commander Harold G. Skinner of Toledo, Gov. Bricker and other distinguished guests.

The conference will formally open Saturday morning with registration. There will be a lengthy meeting of the council of administration during the day and at 6 p. m. there will be a banquet for the veterans and the auxiliary, followed by a military ball at 9 p. m.

Sunday morning will be featured by initiation service and schools for officers. In the afternoon there will be a joint session with National Commander Brown as speaker, followed by a pilgrimage to the Harding Memorial where a wreath will be laid on the tomb.

A committee meeting is scheduled for tomorrow night at the Harding hotel to discuss progress of plans.

The auxiliaries of the state will meet here at the same time with Mrs. Cecelia Carnicom of Toledo, state president, heading the list of distinguished visitors. A full program of activities has been planned by local committees, headed by Mrs. Esther Bowersock, general chairman.

Nine Motorists in District Face Traffic Charges

Two Drunken Driving Arrests Among Busy Week-End Series.

Nine motorists were arrested or given citations for traffic violations in Marion and vicinity over the week-end, police and the state patrol reported. Included in the group were two men charged with drunken driving, one of whom was arrested following a traffic accident.

Bernard Simmons, 44, of 438 West Fairground street was arrested by police on a charge of driving while intoxicated after a car he allegedly was driving struck a parked car on North Main street near Fairground street last night.

He pleaded not guilty before Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen this morning and bond was fixed at $200 pending a hearing next Monday. Police said Simmons' car hit a parked car owned by Bernard Amrine of 508 North Main street. Simmons was treated at City hospital for minor head lacerations.

Pleads Not Guilty

Fred Huberman III, 28, of 478 South Main street was arrested by police last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated on South Prospect street. He pleaded not guilty in municipal court this morning and the case was continued until Wednesday. Bond was set at $200. Police said they received several complaints that a car bearing license plates issued to Haberman was zig-zagging across streets in the uptown business district.

Jacob Albert Stromfield, 22, of Richmond Hills, N. Y., was arrested by State Patrolmen David Weissert and W. C. Corder yesterday afternoon on a charge of reckless driving on Route 98 east of Marion. He was released under $14.70 bond which was declared forfeited when he failed to appear in municipal court this morning. Patrolmen reported the Stromfield car was traveling at a dangerous speed and failed to stop for stop signs at the intersections of Routes 98 and 95 and 98 and 30-S.

A 16-year-old East Side youth was arrested by police Saturday night on a charge of failure to stop for a stop light at East Center street and Grand avenue. He was released under $3 bond to appear in juvenile court this afternoon.

To Appear At Bucyrus

William T. Bland of 282 Marion avenue was arrested by Patrolman Weissert and Sergeant E. H. Russ of the state patrol Saturday night on a charge of reckless driving on Route 4 north of Marion. He was released under $25 bond to appear in mayor's court this afternoon. Officers said Bland was traveling at speeds ranging from 90 to 95 miles an hour and that they pursued him for more than 10 miles before overtaking him.

Richard Price, 19, of 200 South Grand avenue was cited to appear in municipal court tomorrow on a charge of reckless driving. The citation was issued by Patrolman Weissert who said the Price car was speeding and racing another auto a short distance south of Marion on Route 23 last night.

Leonard Holt, 22, of Marshal, Mich., was arrested by Corp. W. D. Mariner and Sergeant Russ at Waldo Saturday afternoon on a reckless driving charge. He was released under $14.70 bond which was declared forfeited when he failed to appear in municipal court this morning. A truck driven by Holt was traveling at a dangerous speed, failed to stop for a stop light and passed an auto at an intersection, according to a patrol report.

Waldo Driver Cited

While enroute to Marion with Holt, officers issued a citation for reckless driving to Donald Larcom of Waldo, who they said was speeding on Route 23. He pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Hazen this morning and was fined $10 and costs.

James E. Azbell, 30, of South Main street was arrested by Patrolman Weissert and Sergeant Russ early yesterday on a charge of failure to stop for a stop sign at the intersection of Routes 23 and 4 of Marion. He was released under $9.70 bond to appear in municipal court Jan. 27.

12 INDICTED BY JURY PLEAD

Two Enter Guilty Pleas, Freed on Probation; 10 Plead Not Guilty.

Two of 12 persons indicted last week by the January term grand jury entered pleas of guilty at arraignments this morning before Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young. Ten pleaded not guilty and the arraignment of another was deferred until later.

Paul Tanner, 18, of LaRue and Robert Wurtzbaugh, 20, of Richwood, pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering. They were named in a joint indictment charging they removed an automobile jack and fog light from the Warren Dutton garage at LaRue, Dec. 14.

Sentences were suspended in both cases by Judge Young, who ordered both youths placed on probation for one year. He ordered them to report monthly to Court Bailiff Robert A. Kelly. They were assessed the costs in the cases and given six months in which to pay the fees.

Held Since December

They have been held in county jail since their arrest shortly before Christmas by deputies from the office of Sheriff Fred F. Miller. At the arraignment Tanner first entered a not guilty plea and later changed the plea to guilty.

Trial dates for those entering not guilty pleas were not fixed. They will be held early in February, Judge Young announced.

FAIR BOARD STUDIES CCC CAMP PROPOSAL

To Meet with Commissioners Regarding Camp Site.

Arrangements for a joint meeting Wednesday with the county commissioners to discuss the proposed use of the fairgrounds for a CCC camp were made at a meeting of the county fair board Saturday afternoon.

Members of the fair board said there are several problems to be worked out before the board could approve plans for the camp.

The board accepted the resignation of William Risch of Big Island township who has been a member for the last two years. Mr. Risch recently entered the race for the Republican nomination for county commissioner.

Plans were discussed for the 1940 fair to be held in August. The board voted unanimously to hold meetings each month.

The board awarded contracts for several concessions and also accepted a contract to rent a public address system for the fair from W. L. Fuller Jr. of Parkersburg, W. Va. The concession for racing programs was awarded to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, the mechanical ride concession was let to the Howard Bros. Amusement Co. of Columbus, the novelty concession to Frank Whitlinger of Columbus and the games concession to W. H. Dearwester of Bellefontaine. No action was taken on the restaurant, soft drinks and ice cream concessions.

HOOVER'S MEN ROUND UP GANG

Head of G-Men Says "Christian Front" Was Nucleus of Nationwide Conspiracy.

(Picture on Page 9)

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Federal officials today declared the arrest of 17 men and the seizure of a small arsenal had merely "scratched the surface" of a terrorist plot to overthrow the United States government.

"More arrests" were predicted by U. S. Attorney Harold M. Kennedy, who said that FBI agents under J. Edgar Hoover were "virtually forced" to act now because their investigations indicated a series of bombing outrages was imminent.

The plot, he said, included plans to blow up buildings, raid utility plants and government offices, "liquidate" Jews, assassinate a dozen unidentified congressmen and set up a dictatorship.

Hoover, in announcing disruption of the alleged plot, said those in custody were members of an inner circle of the Christian Front, an anti-semitic organization. More than half the suspects, he said, served in the active or reserve branches of the armed forces of the United States or were members of the New York national guard.

Eighteen men were taken into custody in the raids, but one of them was released a few hours later when it was discovered that he was a victim of "mistaken identity."

Arraigned before Federal Judge Grover Moscowitz in Brooklyn, the men pleaded innocent and were held in $50,000 bail each for hearing Feb. 5.

FBI agents were searching in many localities for caches of arms such as the "small arsenal" they found in New York City in the course of a six-month investigation of the alleged conspirators.

The 17 scheduled for arraignment today in Brooklyn federal court were charged specifically with seditious conspiracy to create a revolution and overthrow the government of the United States.

The penalty could be six years in prison and a $5,000 fine for each.

Among their tentative aims, Hoover said, was the assassination of 12 congressmen—identities not disclosed—as examples to all those who voted for repeal of the arms embargo.

The day for striking against the government, Hoover said, was to be soon after a final drill in bombing and firing which had been set for Jan. 20—next Saturday.

Thinks Other Arms Stored

While the store of "revolutionary" arms here was comparatively small, Hoover indicted many more guns and bombs might be found elsewhere.

He said elaborate plans had been made for the theft of armament for revolutionary use from National Guard arsenals. In fact, six of those under arrest were listed as members of the New York National Guard, one as a member of the naval reserve and another as belonging to the marine reserve.

One was described as a member of the German-American bund, whose fuehrer, Fritz Kuhn, is in Sing Sing prison for stealing bund funds.

"The group depended," Hoover

The firemen discovered that the chimney of the home was burning out and had ignited wallpaper over a fluehole in the living room. No damage was reported.

President Sends Plans to Congress for Playground in TVA Territory

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — President Roosevelt submitted to congress today a proposal by the Tennessee valley authority to convert the area encompassed by the TVA development in six southern states into a giant national playground.

"Many of our citizens and even government officials hold a belief," the President said in a special message to congress transmitting the report, "that the purpose of the act creating the (Tennesee valley) authority was primarily the development of electric power.

"It is perhaps time to call attention to this utter fallacy."

Additional objectives, Mr. Roosevelt said, were to control flood damage — estimated at $20,000,000 annually — and to make the river navigable. In its broader sense the TVA was formed, he continued, "to raise the standards of life by increasing social and economic advantages in a given area."

Power development, the President declared, was only a part —"and ultimately only a small part" of the social and economic effort in the Tennessee water shed.

With his message he transmitted a study prepared by TVA on recreational possibilities in the area. The report, signed by Harcourt A. Morgan, chairman, called attention to the fact that TVA's lakes had supplied the region with "the one element which nature omitted from an otherwise lavish recreational endowment."

Morgan said in a letter to the President that the TVA act of 1933 authorized a study of the region from a recreational viewpoint but that the TVA board still lacked power to carry out its own recommendation. He suggested that congress grant TVA this additional power.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Jan. 16

THE afflicted aspects of three of the major planets may make this a difficult day. There are signs of conflicting impulses and decidedly opposite objectives, although there will be much force and enterprise to be brought to bear when plans and programs are finally decided upon. This energy may be fitful, erratic and possibly belligerent, with fluctuations between strife, turbulence and discouragement. However, there are definite auguries for composing discords and hostility by tact or strategy, but in all contracts and correspondence be alert and cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of confusion and conflict, with great difficulty in making a choice between two or more contradictory urges. The energies are under high pressure and the mind torn between two fields of operation, with alternate aggressiveness and frustration, initiative and depression. In writings of every nature use caution.

A child born on this day may have many conflicts of character and impulses, with much tension and initiative accompanied by gloom, indecision and eccentricity. Proper training might eradicate such idiosyncrasies.

Eight hundred automobiles can be parked and serviced in a garage under a New York office building on three floors above street level and three below.

CHAPTER 37

Pity Not Wanted

SUE waited; surely Bob would seek her out now. But five minutes passed, ten.

The suspense became unbearable. Her actual waiting began to seem an admission of wrong doing. She walked quickly across the room, across the hall. Bob was sitting in a deep chair, staring absently, almost sleepily, it seemed at first, at the fern-filled fireplace.

"Bob!"

The face he turned on her made her cry out.

"Bob, you mustn't—look like that, I mean! I've done nothing wrong. I don't know what Eric told you, but—"

"He told me that you'd loved him ever since you and he met; that you had left my house to go to him when — when Treadons failed, and duty — duty, Sue! brought you back. He told me you had admitted you never loved me. He said that even two weeks ago you—my wife and the mother of my children—had assured him that you never had felt toward me, you never could feel toward me—as you felt toward him. Is this—true?"

The tight band about her heart began to loosen. This was something she could fight.

"Literally, I suppose it is, Bob; actually—I mean in the spirit of the situation — it is not. I was young and very foolish when I met Eric, I thought I loved him. Perhaps I did. Certainly the thrilling, hot-and-cold, ecstacy-and-anguish feeling I'd read of and never felt before was awakened by—by Eric. I told you when we were married I was afraid it might be—by some man I'd never met. It happened to be Eric. But Bob—" a forlorn little laugh escaped her pale lips. "I found it—that sort of emotion — a much overrated thing! It didn't stand up again your need of me — against my desire to be with you when—when the crash came. I—"

"That's enough! I don't want a wife who lives with me because she is sorry for me!"

"I don't think I was exactly sorry for you then, Bob. And certainly I'm not now. I'm only sorry for myself if you're going to let Eric make trouble between us. Why—" she faced him with hands outspread in a gesture unconsciously dramatic—"what was his coming here tonight but the angry gesture of a man scorned, rejected? I'd hurt his vanity—badly, in New York; he wanted to punish me by trying to destroy my happiness with you. Are you going to let him, Bob?"

He seemed not to hear her. "All these years when I thought you were such a good little sport—when I told myself that you must love me after all or you'd not have gone along—"

"It was true, Bob!"

"—it was because you were sorry for me; you pitied the silly young ass who had thrown away his father's money, the business that had been left him. Pats was honester than you, Sue! She would not stay with the husband she'd stopped loving. You were a traitor to both Farraday and me; to him when you turned back at Kansas City, to me when you left me."

"I came back to you, Bob!"

"Purely because of an accident. If the failure had come one day later, you'd have been with Farraday. All this—" he swept an arm about the room—"would never have been. The children would never have been born. Oh, my God," he groaned, "think of that! My children owe their very existence to the accident of a business failing one day instead of the next!"

She swallowed past the lump in her throat. "Most human relationships develop from chance, Bob. If you hadn't driven your car into mine on the top of Wyeth Hill, we'd never have met—the children would never have been born. And there was something more than accident in my return to you: there was my own will, my decision."

He said: "Farraday tells me that for days afterward he wired you, called you from New York. And I knew nothing about it! I—fool that I was!—kept telling myself that there was one bright spot in the mess I'd made of things, that you were standing by me."

"And wasn't I, Bob?"

"That I might have—have put aside," he said moodily, choosing his words. "It was a long time ago, people change. I've changed a lot myself. But to listen to that confounded smug voice telling me that now—now—two short weeks ago, you'd admitted to him in New York that you felt for him what you'd never felt for me—" his face was suddenly congested. "Damn you, Sue, I'll never forgive you for that!"

Her own temper, disciplined through many year, was rising.

"There is nothing for you to forgive! It's perfectly true—what I said to Eric; I never shall feel for you what I felt for him. But you might have let me explain that I consider my—my love for you a far worthier, a far finer thing than any . . ." In her turn she choked, putting her hand to her bare throat.

"Listen," he said suddenly. "Do you known what happened while you were away? Pearson has bought out the old Treadon business in St. Joseph; it's to be Pearson's Peerless Treadons. I've had Allen angling for weeks to buy back our house—the one I bought for you when we were married. I was keeping it for a surprise. I thought . . . the children can live in Sue's home town. She can have her old friends about her again. She and I can try to collect furniture as much like that first lot as it's possible. I can make up to her at last for what I lost. I was just waiting for Allen to bring the deed to surprise you with my news. Now —" he rose heavily, as if he had aged.

"Now," Sue's voice caught it up, "you're making a mountain out of a molehill, Bob dear. Nothing's changed between us. Except that I know now that I love you as I always hoped to love my husband. You said yourself that I seemed happier since I came home from New York."

"Yes, with Farraday having promised to follow you!"

The bitter words were cut short by the closing of the door.

"Model Pair"

"You're sure there's nothing wrong, Sis?" Allen asked anxiously.

"What should be wrong, Buddy? Bob's gone east to see Mr. Pearson. He told you that when he telephoned you."

"I know. But he was in such a tearing hurry to get hold of the house, he talked as if you'd be moving in as soon as it could be redecorated. And now he's been gone almost a month. I suppose—" he hesitated— "it was his manner when I talked to him. He seemed—unlike himself."

Sue's hands went steadily on with her sewing. She was sitting with her brother on the side porch which overlooked the garden, beyond which lay the river. She was finishing a little dress for Susan, and she busied herself with it determinedly.

"Perhaps it was because he was so excited about the new company," she commented. "Reviving the old name—at least combining it with the Peerless products; and getting our old house back." She changed the subject adroitly. "Where, by the way, are you and Barbara going to live, Allen?"

At once her affairs were forgotten. Allen launched gaily upon his own.

"You'll never guess, Sue! And it's Barb's choice, not mine. Not being in the shoe business, and the career of engineering being no more prosperous than it has for the last half dozen years, I can't afford country estates for my—my wife." There was something almost boyishly shy in the way he said the last word. "I made a clean breast of my assets and liabilities to Barb: the old furniture in storage, my surplus bank account, my salary. And she's come out strong for—the brick dining room-kitchen place where you and Bob first lived after his firm's failure! What do you think of that?"

"Good for Barb!" She laid down her work and looked at him with an affectionate smile.

"Don't I know it! Barbara, and the right kind of a home, and—and children! Barbara wants children, she says. That's partly why we're renting the old brick house. It leaves us a nice margin for those kids we both are counting on. Yep, Sis dear, your two will have some cousins one of these days, I hope!"

"Barb's coming to visit me soon? She promised!"

"She says if she knew when Bob expects to come back she'd set the day. She thinks you're lonely without him."

A sudden mist veiled the dark eyes which were gazing at him so affectionately. "I am, oh, I am, Allen! I miss him. . .terribly!"

"You two!" He was indulgent, approving. "You're a model pair, Sis; and to think I had my doubts about your marrying him! Somehow I got the impression that you didn't love him enough. I was so wrapped up in Pats I guess I measured all emotion by my own. Well, I must be on my way! Give the old boy my best when you write!"

"I will!" She walked with him to his car, raised her face for his brotherly kiss; and went back to her chair with utter desolation at her heart.

Write Bob? If only she could! She had sent one desperate, pleading letter to the Pearson offices in New York. It had been returned to her unopened. She had not dared write Pearson himself. She had not dared make open inquiries. All she could do was to wait; wait until Bob's rare but terrible anger had subsided; until sanity had returned to him.

That he had not done anything reckless she knew by the fact that his business in Atchison went on as usual. The manager called her occasionally, remarked chattily that Mr. Trenton would be pleased at the month's volume of business. Even the amount of money Bob had left her was in its own way reassuring; ample for a month or so but not as a sum on which to live very long.

When he had gone that first evening, flinging what he needed into a bag and telling her in bitter, brief phrases that he had to get away to think things over, she had been conscious merely of anger on her own account. It was all such a tempest in a teapot, she thought.

Southerners Have Roles in Play Coming To Palace

SHIELA BRENT AS "ELLIE MAY" in Tobacco Road."

Sheila Brent, who plays the hair-lipped "Ellie May" in the current production of "Tobacco Road" which will be at the Palace theater Saturday for matinee and night performances, was born in Alabama.

She is one of about a half-dozen members of the cast who have a real southern dialect.

John Barton, the star, spent his boyhood in Baltimore, Md., and has a southern dialect as has Pitt Herbert who, although born in New York, was educated in Virginia. Sara Perry and Walter Ayers were born in Missouri. Mary Perry comes from Georgia. Edgar Hinton comes from North Carolina and David Hoffman was educated in Florida.

"Use of dialect" was the injunction given the actors at the opening rehearsals of Jack Kirkland's history-making drama of the poor Georgia share-croppers. "The author's lines are so written they will give you the right emphasis and accent," the director explained.

Seats for the performance may be purchased either at the box office or by mail.

AUTOMOTIVE GROUP OPENS CONVENTION

Engineers To Discuss Problems in "Clinic."

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Jan. 15 — The men who make the wheels go 'round in modern day transportation laid the various forms of automotives on an imaginary operating room table today as they began a week's clinic of the development of the airplane, automobile and locomotive design and improvements accomplished in fuels and lubrication.

It was the annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers which will reach a discussion of "What Lies Ahead for Management" by William L. Batt, president of SKF Industries, Inc., at the society's annual dinner Thursday night.

Some of the difficulties encountered in attempting to bring the Diesel engine, a compression ignition type of motor that uses no spark plugs or firing device, into line with the conventional gasoline power plant were outlined at today's session in a paper prepared by L. E. Lighton and H. C. Riggs, of the Electric Storage Battery company's engineering staff.

Pointing out that their work in connection with the starting of Diesel engines had been confined to stock units of several manufacturers and that they had not been able to test all types of the engines, Lighton and Riggs said:

"Diesel engines of the so-called 'high speed' type are the hardest to start since the minimum cranking speed required for satisfactory firing has been found to be in the neighborhood of one-tenth of the rated operating speed."

They added that their studies of cranking Diesels at lower temperatures had shown that "the low temperature starting of Diesels becomes a rather involved problem requiring considerable study in order to obtain the necessary speed in the most reasonable manner with the use of such external heat as may be economically applied."

Other speakers today dealt with such technical problems as the rudder control on four engined airplanes, the correlation of wind tunnel and flight test results and the values of aluminum aircraft fuel tanks.

ACTIVE STEEL TRADE SEEN FOR 90 DAYS

Uncertain After That, Magazine Reports.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15 — The magazine Steel sees active steel consumption for possibly 90 days, "but the trend of steel-making later this quarter is somewhat indefinite."

The national ingot production rate dropped one-half point last week to 86 per cent of capacity.

Shrinkage is reflected principally in heavier products, said the publication today. Current orders on all products average from 40 to 60 per cent of shipments.

"Deliveries are improving steadily on a number of products, although in the aggregate backlogs remain substantial," Steel said. "Consumers' inventories, while not regarded as excessive, have been increased sufficiently to make extensive forward buying unnecessary so long as [illegible] still is due against old orders."

The magazine reported automotive industry [illegible] against backlogs to stock dealers. Railroad requirements [illegible] strong and possibly will exceed last quarter's volume. Inquiries for structural shapes and concrete reinforcing bars are only moderate.

"Pig iron shipments in some districts are falling off moderately below the December rate," Steel added. "Larger consumers are well covered two to three months ahead and orders are small. The trend of coke shipments indicates a slower rate of melt this month."

The scrap market is holding steady. Steel's scrap composite fell off four cents to $17.46. The finished steel composite is unchanged at $56.10.

More For Your Money In Funeral Service

The cost of maintaining and operating a funeral establsihment runs into some thousands of dollars each year. When such an establishment has few patrons the cost per funeral is necessarily high. If many patronize that service the costs become correspondingly reduced to all.

That simple law of economics explains why patrons of the Schaffner-Denzer Funeral Home get more for their money. Many families in Marion and vicinity prefer this Funeral Service. That is why we can furnish fine equipment and a beautiful funeral home without making higher charges necessary.

THIS RECORD OF OUR CHARGES

81 Funerals cost	$100 or less	The prices shown are for adult funerals only and cover our entire charges. The only further cost was the amount paid to the cemetery. Many of these funerals were held in our funeral home for which there is no extra charge.
89 Funerals from	$101 to $200
114 Funerals from	$201 to $300
122 Funerals from	$301 to $400
87 Funerals from	$401 to $500
40 Funerals from	$501 to $700
15 Funerals more than	$700

Schaffner-Denzer Funeral Service is available to every family and this record of charges is evidence that there are prices to meet all needs.

SAVINGS LISTED BY SECRETARY OF STATE

Earl Griffith, Mt. Gilead Man, Cites Economies for 1939.

Secretary of State Earl Griffith's home is at Mt. Gilead, but today he turned over to the general revenue fund of the state $164,652.06 in the year 1939 and above all operating expenses of his department.

Mr. Griffith also showed he saved his office during the year a saving of $6,043 from the appropriation allotted his department. All items incurred during the year have been paid or are in the process of payment, he said.

In the original appropriation last year Mr. Griffith took the biggest proportionate cut of any state department, yet was able to save 5.6 per cent from the operating expenses. During 1938, under the previous administration, the department $107,371.83 compared to $98,507.40 for Griffith's first year in office, which included about $18,000 for sending out publicity pamphlets on the constitutional amendments and referendum voted on at the last general election.

Mr. Griffith stated, "The appropriation of my department for the year 1940 is $72,022.40. I anticipate operating my office for this year at less than that figure for the reason that all 1939 items of expenditures have been encumbered under last year's appropriation and we shall have no items held over from the previous year to pay now. In 1939 our operating expenses, less the publicity pamphlets, amounted to $80,517.75. The 1939 figure is based on a tentative computation but includes publication and distribution of many pamphlets and an extensive investigation of election matters in Pike, Jefferson, Mahoning, Summit and Columbiana counties, together with all other operating expenses of the office."

FUNERAL HELD FOR COURT DEPUTY

City, County Officials and Friends Serve as Pallbearers.

City and county officials and family friends served as pallbearers for the funeral today of Mrs. E. Leona Schoonover of 242 West Columbia street, deputy clerk in the municipal court. They were Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, Probate Judge Oscar Gast, County Recorder Paul H. Naher, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole, Tim R. Fahey, Edwin G. Leffler, municipal court clerk, George Lusch, municipal court bailiff, and Wallace Linn.

The municipal court was closed all afternoon and the county recorder's office, where Mrs. Schoonover had part-time employment, before receiving the municipal court appointment, was closed from noon until 3 p. m.

Services were conducted at 1:30 p. m. at the home and at 2 at Epworth Methodist church. Dr. Edward T. Waring, pastor, delivered the funeral sermon. Burial was made in Marion cemetery. Mrs. Schoonover died Friday morning in City hospital after a brief illness of pneumonia.

During one of his voyages to America, Columbus was stranded for 12 months on the north coast of the Island of Jamaica.

S.S.S. Tonic is the choice to increase the appetite...to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions effecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. S.S.S. Co.

FORMER RESIDENT OF NEAR WALDO DIES

Daniel Hecker, 74, a former resident of near Waldo, died yesterday at his home in Lynn, Ind. He had been in failing health four years.

Mr. Hecker left Marion county in 1890 and went to Lynn where he and a brother, Samuel, engaged in the banking business until 1923 when their bank was consolidated with another Lynn bank. After 1923 Mr. Hecker was in the real estate business until ill health forced him to retire four years ago.

He was born in Marion county, near Waldo, on Nov. 11, 1865; son of Rudolpha and Margaret Sulser Hecker. He was married at Lynn in October of 1900 to Miss Juanita Frist. Mrs. Hecker died in February of 1923 and a month later their son, Sheldon, died.

Surviving are the second wife, Mrs. Ella Hamilton Hecker of Lynn and two sisters and a brother, Mrs. John A. Schweinfurth, Mrs. S. W. Almendinger and C. A. Hecker, all of near Waldo.

The funeral will be conducted Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the Methodist church in Lynn, followed by burial in Lynn cemetery.

TO ATTEND TRACTOR MEET

Grover C. Snyder of near Waldo, Marion and Hardin county dealer for the new Ford tractor, with headquarters at Nick's garage on North Main street, will attend a statewide dealers' meeting Tuesday in Columbus. The Columbus meeting will be the first of a series of 29 to be held at various distribution points throughout the country during the next few weeks. Mr. Snyder will return Wednesday with six of the new tractors and implements. Clyde Nicodemus, in charge of service for Mr. Snyder's agency, also expects to attend the meeting.

BEVIS EAGER TO START WORK

New Ohio State President Will Take Over Duties on Campus Feb. 1.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15—Dr. Howard L. Bevis, Ohio State university president-elect, today expressed his eagerness to "get on the job" as he inspected the campus of the nation's fifth largest school.

Dr. Bevis will take command of the institution Feb. 1 at an annual salary of $15,000. His inauguration will be delayed pending completion of arrangements for an elaborate ceremony, but Chairman M. Edith Campbell of the board of trustees said it would be held "before spring."

The trustees, in announcing the $15,000 salary, restored pay cuts accepted voluntarily by Dr. George Rightmire during depression years. Dr. Rightmire was receiving $10,248 a year when he retired July 1, 1938.

Dr. Bevis has been professor of law and government at Harvard university for the last five years. Formerly he taught law at the University of Cincinnati, was state finance director and served on the Ohio supreme court.

At a banquet given in his honor last night by faculty and alumni representatives, Dr. Bevis promised his "whole-hearted devotion to this great opportunity."

He praised college football as "a rallying point for the entire university" because it "crystallizes the loyalties of the students."

"I have a definite feeling that football does something for colleges that nothing else can do," he said.

The trustees conferred the title of "President emeritus" upon 57-year-old Dr. William McPherson, who has been acting president of the university since the retirement of Dr. Rightmire.

An Accurate Guide for Souffle Making

THRIFTY SOUFFLEs
(Serves Six)

3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 cup mushroom soup; 1 cup chopped chicken; 3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored; 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Combine tapioca, salt and mushroom soup (of consistency to serve) in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 8 to 10 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Add chicken and stir until mixed. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold into egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 minutes, or until souffle is firm.

Note: Souffle may be baked in greased ramekins in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Writer

All puffed up and some place to go. That's a souffle—a creamy vision of lusciousness perfect for serving as the main dish for luncheon or supper.

To eliminate guesswork observe these three steps in souffle making:

1—Carefully select and prepare ingredients to give subtle flavor and delicate texture.

2—Bake in a pan of hot (not boiling) water in a moderately slow oven until the top is springy to the touch.

3—Unmould cautiously on a heated dish and serve immediately. If there is any waiting to be done better let the family or guests do it rather than the souffle. A souffle will fall if it stands too long before serving.

Here are several excellent recipes:

Ham Souffle—(fish, fowl or any other meat will be as tasty as the ham). Melt 3 tablespoons of butter and add 5 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon each of chopped parsley, onions, celery, salt and paprika. Pour in 1½ cups milk, 1 cup chopped cooked ham and 3 egg yolks. Cook slowly until thick and creamy. Stir constantly; do not over cook. Fold in the egg whites, beaten, and pour into a well buttered mould. Use ring one if you have it. Bake 1 hour in a pan of hot water in a moderately slow oven—about 300 degrees. Remove from the oven and carefully loosen the edges with a spatula and lightly turn onto a heated platter. Quickly fill the center with buttered peas, green beans or spinach. Surround with a savory sauce. A cheese sauce is especially tasty for this combination.

To round out a luncheon or supper menu serve a green or fruit salad with a souffle, a quick bread or rolls, some preserves or jelly and a simple dessert.

This Cheese Tomato Souffle is something new and is delicious for the bridge club or an informal supper menu. Melt 4 tablespoons of butter and add 1-3 cup of flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each of chopped parsley, onions and paprika. Pour in 1 1-2 cups tomato juice. Simmer until the mixture thickens, then add 1-3 cup grated cheese and 3 egg yolks. Beat 2 minutes. Fold in 3 beaten egg whites and quickly pour into buttered mould. Bake 1 hour as directed. Unmould carefully and surround with creamed rice and mushrooms. Spiced peach or pear salad makes a fitting partner for this souffle.

Chicken Souffle is a real party dish and it's grand. To serve five or six persons, melt 3 tablespoons butter and add 5 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika and 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Pour in a cup of milk. Cook slowly and stir constantly until a very thick sauce forms. Add 3 egg yolks and beat 2 minutes, fold in a cup of chopped, cooked chicken and 3 egg whites, beaten. Pour into a buttered ring mould and bake an hour in a pan of hot water in a slow oven. Unmould and serve plain or surround with a savory sauce, creamed asparagus or mushrooms. If you have it, use chicken stock in place of the milk. For variety substitute tuna or salmon for the chicken and then add a little chopped sweet pickles and ripe olives for piquancy.

These ramekins are filled with Thrifty Souffle: eggs, chicken and mushrooms baked into a golden froth.

RECIPE REQUESTS ANSWERED HERE

Banana Gingerbread

Guests and family will vote for this wholesome shortcake, which may be served with sliced bananas and top milk, as well as with whipped cream.

Three cups sifted flour, three-fourths teaspoon each baking powder, soda, salt, one and three-fourths teaspoon each ginger and cinnamon, one-third cup shortening, one-half cup sugar, one egg, one cup molasses, three-fourths cup water, four to five ripe bananas (yellow peel flecked with brown), one pint whipping cream, whipped. (Serves 8 to 10.)

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices. Beat shortening until creamy. Add sugar gradually and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add molasses and blend. Add flour mixture alternately with water, mixing until smooth.

Turn into pan (8x8x2 inches) rubbed with shortening and flour, and baked in moderate oven, 325 degrees about one hour, or until cake is done. To serve: Split cake crosswise to form two layers. Peel and slice bananas. Place sliced bananas and whipped cream between and on top of layers.

Sausage with Rice

Two tablespoons shortening, one large onion, peeled and sliced, one cup uncooked white rice, one No. 2½ can tomatoes (3½ cups), one cup water, one cup diced celery, one-half pound sausage meat, one teaspoon salt.

Melt shortening in frying utensil. Add sliced onion and rice and cook until they are golden brown. Add remaining ingredients and bring to the boiling point. Cover and let simmer for thirty minutes. Then turn the heat low for fifteen minutes longer. Serves six. An equal amount of sausage links cut in halves, or ground round steak, may be substituted in this recipe.

Fish and Bananas

Bananas may be broiled with fish for a tempting quick meal. Peel bananas. Use whole, or cut crosswise into halves. Place on broiler rack, or in pan under broiler. Brush bananas with melted butter and sprinkle with salt. Broil until bananas are brown and easily pierced with fork, allowing 8 to 10 minutes. Broil fish until tender. Serve very hot.

All-Bran Icebox Cookies

Now comes a butterscotch refrigerator cooky with a proportion of all-bran, which will prove a boon to many, as well as a lunch-box treat.

One cup butter (or half butter and other shortening), two cups brown sugar, one egg, one cup all-bran, three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. (Yields about 7½ dozen cookies.)

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually and beat until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-bran. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture, a small amount at a time. Shape into small rolls; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cooky sheet in moderately hot oven 425 degrees about 10 minutes.

One tablespoon water or milk may be added to dough if rolls are difficult to shape.

"Magic Gardens" Point Way To New Food Ideas

Dear Friends in Marion: The modern homemaker commands—and serves food from all over the world. But she is inclined to use the same seasonings in all—salt, sage, cinnamon. Lavish variety in food was unknown in the Middle Ages, but sameness was avoided by variety of flavoring, and many more herb leaves and seeds were used than modern cooks can dream of.

A stirring summons to cook adventurously is sounded in Rosetta E. Clarkson's new book, "Magic Gardens," which has a rich appeal for the homemaker, the serious gardener, the student of antiquity—even for chemist and doctor. "Magic Gardens" is a fertile, practical and detailed chronicle of a subject that is being rediscovered with fresh enthusiasm in today's world, herbs and savory seeds.

Within the last year, many shops have featured an assortment of culinary herbs, with a chart showing their correct use. It is probable that the majority of those pungent flavorings were grown in Mrs. Clarkson's famed specimen gardens at Milford, on the Connecticut shore, where the herbs of literature and history are studied as they flourish, before being harvested and prepared as in Elizabethan days.

Must Be Understood

Many a homemaker has had the experience of becoming discouraged with these unfamiliar seasonings because she used them too generously at the first trial. In experimenting with savory seeds, "experiment with the common sense of a cook," being careful not to follow any recipe slavishly. The wise cook uses her dozen savory seeds sparingly until she feels really acquainted with them and their relation to foods. One of the most important warnings in the book, which refers both to herbs and seeds, reads:

"Your object is to emphasize the original flavor of the food, not to disguise it. In each seed is the essential oil that characterizes its flavor, and it will take a few trials to discover how much oil there is in a given quantity of one variety. But don't be timid about experimenting. One flavor only is not much different from no flavor at all, and this makes for unappetizing food that just doesn't get digested."

The book gives detailed information concerning more than 200 plants whose history goes back to the dim ages of antiquity. Many of the quotes suggesting unusual uses for garden plants are dated B. C.

Eighty plants in the book are listed in a commercial catalogue of drugs now used in medical formulas. A few such plants are hollyhock, English daisy, bachelor's button, lily of the valley, bleeding heart, sunflower, iris, peony, primrose, violet, feverfew, crocus, squill geum pyrethrum and scabiosa.

Old Salad Favorites

Roots of many flowers that now flourish in perennial gardens were enjoyed in salads in the seventeenth century. Peonies were important in both Greek and Roman physic gardens and later in Anglo-Saxon kitchen gardens; the flowers used for flavoring and the seeds carried as a charm against evil spirits.

The importance of vegetable herbs and the vegetable-medicine garden dates from the early Romans. Cabbage was the most highly esteemed vegetable among the Romans and, according to Pliny and Cato, the only medicine used by their countrymen for 600 years. It was a panacea for all troubles, says the author, such as headache, sore throat, colic and insomnia. The radish, originating in China, was popular in Rome as it was in Greece, highly recommended as an "eye opener" by Roman physicians, who prescribed it taken raw with bread and salt before the morning ham and eggs. Nero ate leeks on several consecutive days each month to clear his voice.

Herbs also had an important place in the laundry, for perfuming as well as cleansing clothes. And for the storage of linens, the author likes to make flat pads of lavender flowers and leaves, or mixtures of rose geranium, a little bit of lavender or sometimes of rosemary; lemon verbena with finger bowl pelargoniums; lemon thyme and lemon verbena. Describing the blent of fragrant odors from old chests, Mrs. Clarkson says "our grandmothers dealt with moths quite effectively and with more respect to the nose than we do now."

Anise is indigenous to Egypt, Greece and Asia Minor. Pliny discovered that it had the effect of sweetening the breath, if chewed in the morning.

Suggested Substitute

Instead of chopped chives with cottage or cream cheese for sandwiches or appetizers, Mrs. Clarkson suggests one teaspoon of aniseed to one cup of cheese. Aniseed may be added to any basic recipe for biscuit, bread or cake, and cookies with the seeds are recommended as beneficial for youngsters. Aniseed will tone up soups, add a spice variation to applesauce, instead of cinnamon or nutmeg. Beet salad with the addition of the seed is a favorite Scandinavian dish. Use caraway in the same proportions with cottage cheese, adding salt and pepper and enough cream to moisten.

Valuable for reference is a list of 26 culinary herbs and their uses. A series of complete tables will guide gardeners who already are planning to grow their own herbs for fragrance and for culinary adventuring.

WALDO SOCIETY AT BERRINGER HOME

WALDO, Jan. 15—The Ladies' Aid society of St. Joseph Evangelical and Reformed church met Wednesday with Mrs. Frank Berringer. Mrs. Arthur Denzer was a guest. Rev. R. L. Barr led devotions. The following committees were named: flower, Mrs. Alfred Fogle, Mrs. J. M. Selanders and Mrs. Howard Henry; membership; Mrs. Wesley Knelber, Mrs. Ben Klingel and Mrs. Wallace Klingel. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. J. M. Selanders and Miss Geraldine Selanders.

ACHIEVEMENT NIGHT PROGRAM AT WALDO

Achievement night for boys and girls in vocational agriculture, home economics and 4-H club work will be observed in a meeting of the Waldo P.-T. A. Tuesday night at 8 at the Waldo school. Achievement awards will be presented following a program.

Music by a combined group will be followed by a stunt by the 4-H club and agricultural boys, and a drill by the 4-H and home economic girls. A play, "Cinderella at Home" will be presented by Betty Sipe, Virginia Heiby, Marjorie Baker, Clara Mae Moyer. Making up the 4-H chorus for the three-act play will be Donna Davis, Natalie Graham, Joan Groll, Mary Ellen Miller, Susanna Miller, Eileen Seiter, Jean Thiekn, Betty Ullmer and Marjorie Wargowsky, Louise Bender will be the pianist.

MARSEILLES FARM PROGRAM PLANNED

Problems of farm life will be discussed at a two-day farmers' institute to be held Wednesday and Thursday at the Marseilles High school auditorium.

Talks will be given at each session by Mrs. George Peters of Minerva and Henry Leimbach of Vermillion, state farmers' institute speakers. Sessions will be held at 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 7:45 p. m. each day, officers have announced. In addition to the talks the programs will include playlets and musical selections by residents of the Marseilles community.

Cash premiums are offered in a farm exhibit being held in connection with the institue.

Orange Juice

Does orange juice have any effect on bone and tooth building?

Recent experiments have proved that fruit juices containing vitamin C activate the deposit of calcium. Formerly it was supposed that vitamin D, which is found in fatty foods, was exclusively responsible for the mechanism of the deposit of calcium in the bones and teeth.

Lanford's experiments showed that orange juice is an effective aid in this mechanism. In experimental animals growth alone was promoted 10 per cent by the addition of orange juice to the basic diet, and it was shown by volumetric estimation that the amount of calcium ash in the body showed a distinctly higher per cent of calcium in animals fed an abundance of orange juice over those where orange juice was excluded from the diet.

Even when the content of calcium in the food is lower than normal, its utilization is greater when orange juice is fed than when the diet is high in calcium and no orange juice is taken.

These experiments substantiate the clinical observation of Chaney and Blunt that orange juice favors the retention of calcium in growing children.

Why do complexions suffer in the winter time?

For two reasons. In the first place, overdoing the daily bath idea. In hot and warm weather the lukewarm bath, even with heavy soaping, removes a great deal of detritus and improves the function of the skin. In cold weather, when the skin secretions are more or less dried up, it tends to dry the skin excessively and cause cracking and scaling. The same effect is produced, particularly on the skin of the face, by going out from the exceedingly hot, dry rooms of the American home and office building in winter to the outside cold. This is the second reason.

I believe the inside of the American house is more uncomfortable and unhealthier in winter time than it is in the summer time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. L. T.: "Regarding cancer of the breast, you mention in an article that a lump in the breast is usually painless. I would like to know should pressure be exerted to the lump would there be a sensation of pain? Can you tell me if there is a test which one can take which would prove that a lump is or is not cancer?"

Answer—Early cancer of the breast is usually painless and gentle pressure does not elicit tenderness. Of course, late cancer is painful. The only positive test which will decide whether a lump in the breast is cancer or not is to remove a small piece by surgical operation, and submit it to microscopic examination. This is called biopsy. There is no blood test.

FORMER CARDINGTON WOMAN DIES HERE

Mrs. Nancy Coleman Stricken at Daughter's Home.

Mrs. Nancy Coleman, 80, a former resident of Cardington, died yesterday at 5:45 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Pearl [illegible] 125 Garden street. She had been in failing health for a number of infirmities of age. Mrs. Coleman lived in Cardington until several years ago when she came to Marion to make her home with her daughter.

She was born in Delaware county on Sept. 30, 1859, daughter of Amanda and Delight Van Brimmer. Her husband, James Coleman, died in 1926.

The body is at the Curl funeral home in Cardington, where the funeral will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be made in the Cardington cemetery.

MARIONITE DIES IN COLUMBUS HOSPITAL

William Gabler, 73, Stricken; Rites Set for Wednesday.

William Gabler, 73, of 551 North Seffner avenue, a retired stationary engineer, died Saturday night in a Columbus hospital. He had been ill since Thanksgiving.

Mr. Gabler retired eight years ago. He was at one time associated with the Gardner Tap & Die Co., a former Marion concern.

He was born in Durbin county, Indiana, on July 1, 1866 to Christian and Sarah Gabler. He was married in Marion 17 years ago to Mrs. Myrtle Waffle.

Surviving with the widow are a step-son, Frank Waffle of Kent, O., and a brother, John Gabler of Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Friends may call at the Curtis Home for Funerals on East Center street, where the funeral will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. W. E. Zimmerman of First Church of the Nazarene will be in charge. Burial will be made in Waldo cemetery.

INSTALL OFFICERS AT CARDINGTON

Recently elected officers of St. Paul's Lutheran church at Cardington were installed during the worship hour yesterday. They are:

M. M. Michel, elder; Lowell Boger, deacon; Karl Renz, trustee; Robert Uncapher, financial secretary; C. G. Axthelm, treasurer; Mrs. Clark Kreis, pianist.

Officers and teachers named at a recent meeting of the congregation are: Kenneth Haycook, superintendent; Fred Kreis, assistant superintendent; Martha Kreis, treasurer; Hazel Matthes, secretary; Rev. William H. Freytag, teacher of Class No. 6; Harry Kaelber, Class No. 5, with William Kreis as substitute; Mrs. Doris Boger, Class No. 4, Mrs. Dott Kreis, substitute; Margaret Matthes, Class No. 3, Mrs. Anna Matthes, substitute; Mrs. Belle Dennis, Class No. 2, Martha Kreis, substitute; Miss Lydia Hanziker, Class No. 1, Marjory Kreis, substitute.

The parsonage recently has been remodeled at a cost of $1,115, the annual report shows. A special vote of thanks was given J. B. Williams and Ferd Axthelm at the congregational meeting for the three months time donated during the remodeling. A gain of 662 was reported in the Sunday school attendance over last year.

HARDING DEBATERS AT MARYSVILLE

Lima South High school won first place in the Class A division of the debate tournament in which Harding High school participated Saturday at Marysville High school.

Lima won seven of the eight rounds of debating. Columbus North and East schools and the Marysville school tied for second place, each winning six out of eight debates.

Seventy-two teams from 26 school were entered in Classes A and B. Each team debated four other teams, making a total of 144 debates.

The Harding affirmatives team, composed of Eva Roberts and George Lane, debated Circleville, Mansfield, Wooster and Dayton. The Harding negative team, Kathryn Stuckey and Janet Nichols, debated Hamilton, Old Fort, Circleville and Columbus East.

The Harding team's next debates will be scheduled after the mid-year examinations, Coach T. D. Bain said.

MOTHER OF MARION RESIDENTS STRICKEN

Mrs. Theodoshia Cox, 67, who visited here frequently with her children, died yesterday at her home at Trinway, O., after a long illness.

She was the mother of Mrs. E. M. Breithaupt of 322 Marion avenue, with whom she spent considerable time, William Cox of Oak Grove avenue, and Delmas Cox of near Martel. Two other daughters also survive, Mrs. G. R. Cullins of Steubenville and Mrs. George Moran of Los Angeles.

The funeral will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at the home. Burial will be made in the cemetery at Dresden, O.

COUNTY TO HOLD SOYBEAN JUBILEE

By The Associated Press

VAN WERT, Jan. 15—Van Wert county, one of the few in the United States which produced more than 1,000,000 bushels of soybeans last year, is going to celebrate its achievement.

Farmers who devote 33,000 acres to the county soybean crop will stage a show and conference to reward best producers and attempt to find ways to improve their work this year.

American Soybean association officers and state university agriculture experts have been invited to attend.

The natives of Java are divided into three groups: Javanese, Sundanese and Madurese. All are of Malay stock.

Congressmen Seek Ohioan's Secret for Getting Bills Passed Quickly

By EARL BERKLEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, the Ironton, Ohio, lawyer who came to congress 15 years ago, has a way of getting legislation passed without some of the endless committee hearings or parliamentary obstacles which bog down most bills.

Colleagues still are talking about Jenkins' achievement in winning speedy passage of his bill to adjust Ohio's claim for federal old age pension contributions withheld in October, 1938.

Many members would like to know Jenkins' secret.

"I guess it's because I don't drink nor smoke," he joked.

But associates suggested it is because Jenkins is a "good fellow," with friends on both sides of the political aisles. He is a Republican.

The pension bill was passed by the house a week or so after it was introduced in the last regular session of congress.

Flood control advocates don't know whether to be happy or gloomy.

They wailed when budgetary estimates included only $70,000,000 for general flood control in fiscal 1941 beginning next July.

They beamed when the army engineers reported they could spend $206,624,000 on authorized projects.

Congress usually appropriates more than proposed in the budget but less than figured by the engineers; 1940 was an example of how this works out:

The budget called for $110,000,000. The engineers estimated $195,525,500. Congress actually appropriated $133,000,000.

The budget cut from $110,000,000 last year to $70,000,000 is in line with the administration's plans to cut down spending except for national defense.

Representative Secrest (D-Ohio), member of the house flood control committee, and Representative Polk (D-Ohio) are among members who object to any curtailment of flood control expenditures.

Projects authorized by congress would cost around $800,000,000 or $1,000,000,000. Flood control leaders contend this program should be carried out in five years with annual appropriations of at least $200,000,000.

Representative Routzohn's name confuses lots of people. He recalled that when he went to the White House reception for congressmen last year, President Roosevelt greeted him as "Mr. Ralston."

He went again this year and reported happily that the President did not pronounce it that way this time.

The Dayton Republican is used to having his name mis-pronounced, but he sees no reason for it.

LANG M'KINLEY DIES

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 15—Lang McKinley, 71, of Columbus died at the county home here today after a short illness. He had been visiting with his sister, Mrs. Charles Gongs of near here until he took sick and was sent to the county home. Four children are living all of Columbus.

Paramount presents

Magical, marvelous entertainment with Gulliver among the Lilliputians.

Have you "heard" and "seen" the latest?

The Palace Theatre is the first in Ohio to install the new Brenkert motion picture projector and to re-equip with the latest in RCA sound.

Now you can see pictures that are LIFE-LIKE—hear sound reproduction of truely unbelievable fidelity.

The MIRACLE OF LIVING SOUND IS HERE!

Why new equipment?

Many of our good friends have said, "Why this change, I've always thought you had excellent sound, and the picture always looked alright, too."

But nothing stands still—we either progress or go backward. And the Palace believes a new era in sound picture presentation is here, hence this fine new equipment.

Your Palace leads the way, with the first installation in the state.

The first programs featuring the new RCA sound and Brenkert projection are:

Sun.-Mon.-Tues. Jan. 21-23 DEANNA DURBIN in "FIRST LOVE"

Wed. only Jan. 24 "Two Thoroughbreds" and the Philharmonic offering "Merry Wives of Windsor"

Thurs.-Fri. Jan. 25-26 NELSON EDDY in 'Balalaika' with [illegible]

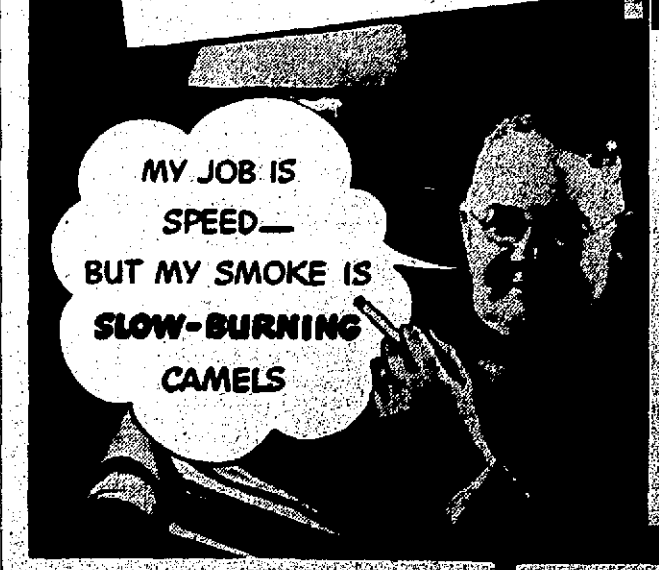
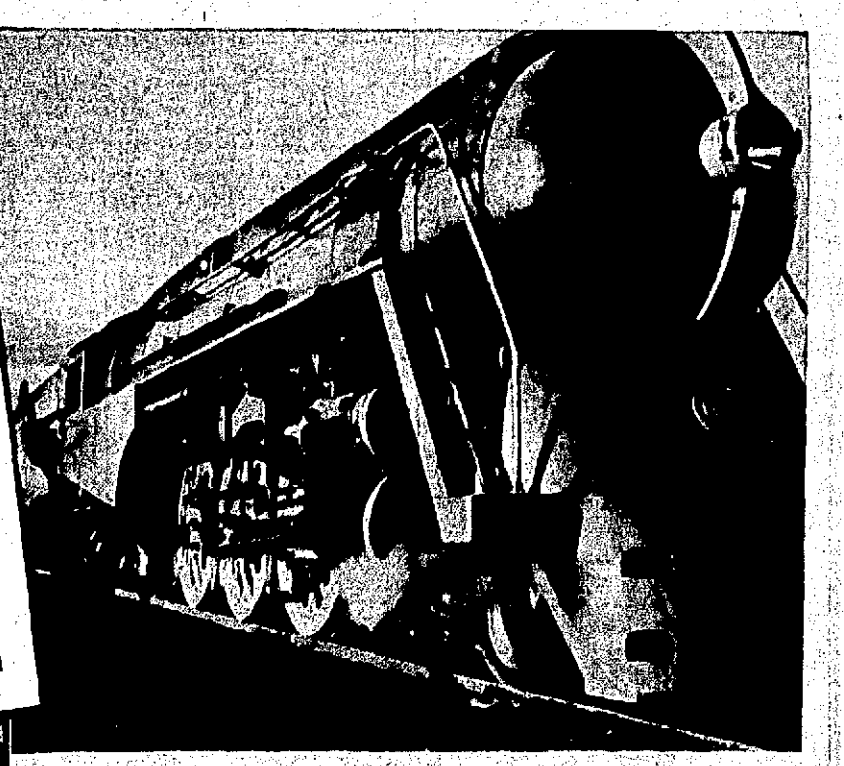
EXTRA MILDNESS
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR





THE CENTURY READY TO "HIGHBALL," as they say in railroading! Engineer Walter L. Bronson (above) swings up into the cab of Number 5449, one of the big Hudson type locomotives which flash at 80 miles an hour across the landscape between New York and Chicago in a day-in, day-out epic of modern railroad speed.

HERE'S EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, AND EXTRA FLAVOR, and here's why: Camels are slower-burning. They have thoroughbred quality through and through. Finer, more expensive tobaccos are used, in the first place. And those choice tobaccos are expertly blended into a matchless blend.

Smoke a Camel. Notice how slowly it burns. That is your clue to true cigarette enjoyment—the "extras" of mildness, coolness, flavor—and extra smoking in every cigarette. Camels burned 25% slower than any other cigarette in recent tests (full details below). You'll always rejoice over the day you switched to Camels!

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

TAKING IT EASY, Engineer Bronson says: "No speed for me in my cigarette. That slow-burning feature makes sense to me. I've been a Camel smoker for years. I know Camels are milder and always taste fresh. And I like the idea a lot of getting those extra smokes per pack."

LIPPMANN

thing which the Japanese government desires is a war with the United States."

Danger In Embargo

I think Mr. Stimson may be right. But the danger is not that Japan will declare war if congress imposes an embargo; the danger is that Japan, relying upon the fact that the United States do not wish to go to war, are not really prepared to go to war, and, in view of the European situation ought not to go to war, will be driven by resentment and necessity to commit new aggressions in the belief that it is safe to do so.

These aggressions might very easily create a situation where, in order to undo them, war would be inevitable eventually—where, immediately the American navy would be pinned down so closely in the Pacific, that no ships could be spared if there is a catastrophe in the Atlantic.

3 FOXES KILLED IN HARDIN COUNTY

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Jan. 15—Three red fox were killed in this locality last week as the Liberty Township Conservation league announced the start of its annual pest drive, under supervision of Captains Lee Morrison, Earl Moe, William Cheney and Otho Greenawalt.

Harvey Scott, after two days of trailing through melting snow, killed a large fox in the Foraker community but remained undecided as to how he would dispose of the pelt. Dean Moore and Willis Cheney of Ada each bagged a red fox during the week. Moore said the animal he killed weighed 13 pounds—one of the largest taken in Hardin county this season.

Cartoon Feature At Palace Wins Reviewer's Praise

Seventy-six minutes of entertainment as thoroughly enjoyable as any one could hope for is offered in Max Fleischer's technicolor cartoon feature, "Gulliver's Travels," showing currently at the Palace theater.

It is one of those pictures that "must" be seen. But go early. You'll probably want to see it twice.

The possibilities in Jonathan Swift's fantastic story of a life-sized man dropped into a land where the tallest citizens are no higher than the heels of his boots are obvious and Fleischer has made the most of them.

"Gabby," the impudent, gossipy town crier, has the stellar role and, judging from the friends he made at the Palace over the week-end, he's destined for as much fame as "Dopey," the dwarf in "Snow White." From the opening minute of the picture when he discovers Gulliver and sounds the warning, "There's a giant on the beach," Gabby stands out in a class by himself in the kingdom of Lilliputians.

And there are other characters just as colorful as Gabby; "King Little," the pompous ruler of Lilliput; his rival, "King Bombo" of Blefuscu; "Sneak," "Snitch" and "Snoop," spies in the employ of Bombo who do their spying to perfection; "Twinkletoes," carrier pigeon de luxe; beautiful "Princess Glory" of Lilliput; her lover, "Prince David" of Blefuscu; and, of course, Gulliver himself.

On the eve of the wedding of Princess Glory and Prince David, the two kings quarrel over which national anthem should be played at the ceremony, the wedding is called off and a war between the two countries is imminent. Then Gulliver arrives, adding immensely to the problems of the little Lilliputs until they discover that he is their friend and not a foe. In the end, Gulliver is able to end the controversy without bloodshed and reunite the lovers.

Completing the Palace bill are a Crime - Does - Not - Pay reel, "Pound Foolish," a sports novelty, "Judo Experts," and a newsreel.—C. W.

REDS PROTEST AID FOR FINNS

Sweden and Norway Given Warning; Neutrality Violation Charged.

Special to The Star

MOSCOW, Jan. 15—Soviet Russia warned today of "danger" in her relations with Norway "and especially Sweden," publishing both her protests to them charging violations of neutrality and their not "entirely satisfactory" answers.

In both cases, the Russian protests dealt with anti-Soviet attacks in the press and in quarters close to the governments of the two countries and with men and material going from them to the aid of Finland.

Similarly-worded replies from Norway and Sweden disputed the Russian assertions and expressed hope for continued good relations with the Soviet Union.

Replies Not Satisfactory

Tass, official Soviet news agency, published summaries both of the Russian representations in Oslo and Stockholm and the answers of the two Scandinavian nations, concluding:

"The replies given by the government of Norway, and especially Sweden, cannot be regarded as entirely satisfactory.

"The governments of Norway and Sweden do not deny all the facts proving violation by them of the policy of neutrality. Such a position by the governments of Sweden and Norway conceals danger.

"It testifies to the fact that the governments of Sweden and Norway do not offer proper resistance to the influence of those powers which strive to involve Sweden and Norway in war against the U. S. S. R."

The Soviet minister to Sweden made his emphatic representations to Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Gunther, Jan. 5, and a protest in similar language was made the same day in Norway. Tass said Norway replied the next day, and Sweden answered Jan. 10.

Sweden was warned that aid for Finland and attacks on Russia in the Swedish press "may lead to undesirable complications."

were in conventional business suits. Several were what appeared to be cut flowers in the lapels and other fresh flowers adorned vases at several windows. None was in uniform and spectators had no way of distinguishing between officers and subordinates.

Their homeward trip began last night at Jersey City and they will arrive on the west coast Thursday morning. The specials will make no prolonged stops and none of the passengers is permitted to leave the train. The trains are composed of Erie railroad equipment, which will be used for the entire trip.

From the general atmosphere within the coaches the men appeared to have forgotten the fate of their ill-starred ship. The Columbus, third largest of the Reich's merchant marine, was 32,581 tonnage. It had tied up at Vera Cruz, after debarking passengers at Havana in September.

Attempted Unsuccessful Dash

Shortly after the scuttling of the Graf Spee at Montevideo, the Columbus officers apparently decided on an effort to flee through waters patrolled by British ships. Prior to the dash Captain Daehne, according to news accounts, spent two weeks training picked squads in the art of scuttling and firing a ship.

The Columbus was scuttled 320 miles north of Bermuda, when the British boat Hyperion, approached and fired a shot over her bow. The American boat, 10,000-ton Tuscaloosa, on neutrality patrol, came upon the foundering Columbus and rescued crew members and officers. The crew was taken to Ellis Island. Only two seamen were known to have been lost.

HOME OFFICIALS TO RETAIN POSTS

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 15 — The Union county commissioners have accepted the withdrawal of the resignation of Milton Southard, superintendent of the Union county home. Mr. and Mrs. Southard, the latter matron of the home, tendered their resignation to the board last October 2 to be effective on April of this year, and the commissioners had planned to have the state hold a civil service examination early this year to fill the post.

The commissioners unanimously decided to ask withdrawal of the resignation and request Mr. and Mrs. Southard to serve until Jan. 1, 1941.

DIES AT MARYSVILLE

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 15 — Mrs. Anna Margaret Gunderman Hoffman, 78, died here Saturday. Surviving six children and seven grandchildren. Mrs. Hoffman and her husband ran a bakery and restaurant here for a number of years. Funeral services were this afternoon with burial in the Oakdale cemetery.

Junior C. of C. Program Here Is Part of National Observance

The Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce will take part in observance of National Junior Chamber of Commerce Week, Jan. 16-23, centering its participation around a joint banquet with the senior Chamber next Monday night at Hotel Harding.

The banquet, at which Lawrence M. Judd of Honolulu, former governor of Hawaii, will be speaker, will be the occasion for awarding of the annual Junior Chamber distinguished service key and plaque and also for the annual Jaycee "bosses" dinner.

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce is celebrating its twenty-first anniversary and the local Junior Chamber its twelfth.

Officers Outline Purposes

William Bradley, president of the Marion Jaycees, who is directing the observance here, today pointed out that the organization is fitted for young men, enlisting them in active service in civic, state and national affairs.

He pointed out further that the name is somewhat misleading, in that the Jaycees are not strictly a Chamber of Commerce. Although they are interested in the business life of the community, they are primarily concerned with activities of a civic, educational and cultural nature. It is not a fraternal or social organization except that it uses good fellowship as a means to securing effective participation by young men in community projects.

Walter Maxwell of Marion, former president and now national councillor for the local Junior Chamber, had this to say today: "The Junior Chamber of Commerce represents the young men of the community at work. It promotes business success, it teaches its members civic responsibility and expresses the viewpoint of the young men of the community.

State, National Program

Membership in any local Junior Chamber automatically means membership in the state and national Junior Chambers. The organization is noted for its energy, its forward looking policies and the efficient manner in which it carries out its various projects. It is open to young men between the ages of 21 and 36 and is planned and operated solely by them.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY CHURCH GROUP

Zena Mae Prettyman was elected president of the Intermediate league of Calvary Evangelical Sunday school at a meeting Friday night. Others chosen are Virgil Hinamon, vice president; Betty Eckles, secretary; Alice Zachman, treasurer; and Dorothy Harruff, contest secretary. Seventeen members and six guests attended. Devotions were led by Mary Taylor. Plans for the new year were discussed with the director Mrs. Edith Eckles.

G. GINSBERG NEW B'NAI B'RITH HEAD

G. Ginsberg will head Marion Lodge No. 864, B'nai B'rith for the year 1940. Election and installation of officers was held Tuesday night in the lodge room, with H. Caplan of Toledo, state deputy of the northern district, as the installing officer and guest speaker. A dinner preceded the business meeting.

S. Sobel was elected and installed as vice president, S. G. Rosenberg, secretary, Dr. M. C. Smally, treasurer and trustee, Sol Freed, trustee and guard, and Harry Weintraub, monitor.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Frances Willard W. C. T. U. members will have an all day meeting and covered dish dinner Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Eva Russell of 188 Jefferson street.

Social Affairs

ARRANGEMENTS for the first dance of the new year for the Nine to Twelve Dance club are in charge of a committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Faust as chairman. The members will dance Wednesday evening at the Elks' hall to a program played by Bob McMahon's orchestra. Assisting on the committee are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Denman, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Frew, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heininger, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Weber and Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Snare.

THE women of the Marion Country club will meet for bridge Thursday at Hotel Harding. Luncheon will be at 12:30 o'clock and will be followed by cards.

A SHORT business session at 2 o'clock will be followed by an afternoon of cards when the Elks Women's club meets Wednesday in the Elks' parlors. Mrs. M. D. Porter is chairman for the party and she is being assisted by Miss Kathryn Hayden, Mrs. B. A. Pierre, president, will be in charge of the business session.

Husbands of the members were honored with special favors at the leap year party held by the Kitty Kat Klub Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckingham of the Prospect road. Three tables were filled for euchre, awards for high scores going to Mr. Buckingham and Martin Lewis. Luther Garver was consoled and Mr. Lewis received the lone hand award. Lunch was served. A meeting in two weeks will be with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bonsell.

Dr. Nettie Spicer was a guest when Mrs. Pearl Pangborn of West Church street entertained the Oil Penates club at a 1 o'clock luncheon and social meeting Friday afternoon. Contest awards were won by Mrs. Lulie Bonen and Mrs. May Evans. Mrs. Henry Gregory of Bellefontaine avenue will entertain the club in two weeks.

Mrs. Ralph Cheney and Mrs. J. A. Raub were hostesses to the H. and H. club Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Cheney on South High street. Dinner preceded an evening of bridge. The long table was centered with asters and pompons. In bridge the awards for high scores went to Mrs. Clara Wintringham and Mrs. W. R. Yocum, and a floating award to Miss Leota Click. Mrs. Robert Keller was consoled. Mrs. Clifford Bartlett, a recent bride, was presented a gift. Assisting the hostesses was Mrs. John Jolley.

Mrs. Merle Lashey of Harding Highway E. will entertain the Claridon Farm Women's club Wednesday at her home. The roll call response will be "Books I Like and Why."

Capacity Audience Hears Club's Sunday Musicale

MUSIC patrons and members of the Marion Lecture-Recital club were treated to an afternoon of delightful music yesterday when the club sponsored one of its popular Sunday afternoon musicales at Hotel Harding. A capacity audience filled the hotel ballroom to hear Mrs. Helen Holscher, head of the voice department at St. Mary of the Springs school in Columbus, and Don Bryant, student of music at Capital university.

Adding color to her pleasing interpretation of two scenes, "Old England in Story and Song" and "In a Shakespearean Garden," was Mrs. Holscher's costume. The story is of a peasant girl's visit to London.

Mr. Bryant, talented young piano student at Capital university, was heard in two groups of numbers. For his first group he played the allegro, romance, scherzino, intermezzo and finale of Schumann's "Vienna Carnival Scene," and chose for his second group two Chopin compositions, "Waltz in A Flat," opus 42, and "Etude," opus 25, No. 7, and a Schubert - Liszt number "Erlkonig."

Mrs. Holscher, who possesses a full, rich voice, responded to the applause of the audience with "Annie Laurie." Mrs. Marguerite Andrews was the narrator and accompanist.

Mr. Bryant chose for his encore number "Black Key Etude," by Chopin.

Early in the spring the club will present an evening of "American Music."

LEGION AUXILIARY BACKS LEGISLATION

It was voted to write Congressman Frederick C. Smith and Senators Donahey and Taft asking them to support the widows and orphans bill which will come before congress at a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, Friday night. A petition also was signed supporting the Dies committee investigation.

Mrs. Lucille Snare was appointed to serve with Mrs. Ruth Howard on the community service committee and one application for membership was balloted on. Plans were made to send representatives to the midyear state conference of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the auxiliaries to be held here Jan. 20 and 21. The sum of $14.30 netted on the banquet served recently by the auxiliary will be used to provide equipment for the kitchen at the Dugout. It was announced. It was reported that 14 baskets had been distributed at Christmas time. A legislative program will be given Jan. 26 at which time the veterans are invited to join with the members.

MOTHER BELIEVED BICYCLING HOME

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15 — Hungry with mother-love, a youngish former Ohio State university student may be bicycling today enroute to Cincinnati, Ohio, for a reunion with her little daughter.

M. Pauline Anderson, the mother, said Saturday she expected to depart eastward Sunday morning on a bicycle after receiving a letter from her 8-year-old daughter, Mary, which said in part:

"I love you so much that I cry nights. I want you very much."

Mrs. Anderson's rooming house said she had gone Sunday morning before any one else was up. She had paid her rent and was tinkering with a bicycle Saturday, the landlady reported last night.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Volunteers to Help Madge Forestall Veritzen.

"MARY! MARY!" I remonstrated, as she made her vicious little wish. But my remonstrance was weakened by laughter which I could not wholly smother, and Mary grinned impishly at me.

"That's what you wish, too," she said, "only you're too much a lady to say so. But," she added hopefully, "if Olina only raises enough of a racket, perhaps Papa-In-law will be so busy trying to discipline her that he'll lay offen me. But"—and now her voice was lugubrious—"I don't suppose any of this alters the fact that he'll want to throw me out of the rehearsal tomorrow."

"He may want to, but he won't," I told her, emphasizing my words with a click of my teeth. "And that reminds me: As soon as Mr. Veritzen goes, you and I must get to work. I want to check on your rendition for the last time before we spring our big surprise. But I don't want you to be in evidence."

Ready for Veritzen

"I'll dash back to my room as soon as I've had breakfast," she assured me, "and I won't stick so much as an eyelash out of the door until I'm sure the coast is clear. And I'll have Noel get dressed up so he can go out and greet Papa and tell him I'm studying my role, or sleeping, or 'reeling and writhing and fainting in coils,' whichever explanation he fancies most in order. Are you going to lie low, too?"

"I'd like to," I replied, "but I'm sure your father-in-law will wish to see me about that harp proposition, so I'm going to be in evidence."

"Poor Auntie Madge!" she apostrophized, "always getting the raw deal! But as there doesn't seem to be anything I can do about it, I'll amble along and get my breakfast so that I can duck out of the way. Wonder when Olina will get hers."

"I'm going to have Katie take breakfast trays up to them very shortly," I said.

Mary Is Grateful

"You always do solve problems the nicest way," Mary commended. "I thank you from the bottom of my heart for keeping Olina away from the breakfast table, where I'd have to be polite. I lasted through the tennis game nobly, but I'm afraid my veneer would crack if I had to smile at her much longer."

"You won't have to see her again today," I promised.

"On that, I can promise to appear wreathed in smiles and scattering sunshine tomorrow," she said. "Ta, ta!"

With an airy wave of the hand she sped away to the house, and after a minute or two I followed her but went directly to my own room where, as I expected, Lillian was awaiting me.

"You look as if the canary had been safely swallowed," she said. "Sit down and spoon the spinach."

Lillian Lays Plans

For the third time, I went over my interview with Olga. Lillian listened without comment, although I had the impression that once or twice she was simmering with suppressed laughter. When I had finished, she put a crisp question.

"When did you say Phil is coming?"

"Half-after-ten."

"Then," she directed, "you stay up here. As I understand it, you want to see him, but you don't want him to get any false ideas about your being able to be around much today, so that he won't want to spring that rehearsal on you."

"You are eminently correct," I said, smiling at her.

"All right, I'll be Tabby at the rat hole while he's 'putting his fortune to the test' in Olga's suite. When he comes out, I'll tell him so sweetly that you're terribly tired, but you'd like to see him for just a few moments. Then when you do see him, stress the fading invalid note. If Olga fulfills her promise to you, he'll be in such a triumphant mood he'll stand for anything. He'll be flapping his wings and crowing, that old rooster.

"I hope you're right," I told her, when I could speak for laughing at the picture of Philip Veritzen she had made me "conjure up." Then, as an ever-present anxiety thrust itself up from my sub-consciousness, my mood sobered, and I put an anxious question.

"How is Father?" I asked.

MURPHY APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — The senate judiciary committee approved today the nomination of Attorney General Frank Murphy to be a member of the supreme court.

Murphy succeeded the late Associate Justice Pierce Butler on the high court.

Murphy, 48, appeared before the committee, but was not questioned.

The committee also approved President Roosevelt's nominations of Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson to be attorney general and of Judge Francis Biddle of Pennsylvania to be solicitor general.

The senate may act on the nominations tomorrow, and there have been indications that all will be confirmed.

NEW JAP CABINET FORMED AT TOKYO

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Jan. 15—Japan's new premier, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, completed a cabinet today which it was said would continue Japan's present diplomatic policy toward the United States.

Admiral Yonai, a former Japanese fleet commander and former naval minister, chose as his foreign minister the veteran diplomat Hachiro Arita, who will succeed Admiral Kichisaburo ...

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — Authoritative sources disclosed today that this government would not enter into even a temporary arrangement to replace the expiring Japanese - American commercial treaty unless Japan made "effective" guarantees that American interests would receive equal and fair treatment hereafter in Japanese-occupied China.

Expiration of the treaty, which was abrogated by this country, is only 11 days away.

TROOPER ACQUITTED IN GIRL'S SLAYING

By The Associated Press

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 15— Corporal Benjamin Franklin found not guilty today for the fatal shots he fired into the body of 14-year-old Joan Stevens in his acquittal on murder and manslaughter charges resulting from her death.

The handsome, 30-year-old suspended state trooper beamed and said he felt "good" when a jury of nine men and three women announced its verdict late yesterday.

From Mrs. Mayme Stevens, mother of the slain girl, came the comment, "I lost heavily. The commonwealth can now go out and kill other children."

NOTRE DAME PREXY BECOMES BISHOP

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 15— Scores of members of the American hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church gathered here today on the campus of the University of Notre Dame for the consecration of the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, C.S.C. as titular bishop of Milasa.

With his consecration he relinquished the Notre Dame presidency. His active episcopacy as bishop will be that of auxiliary bishop of the United States army and navy, with headquarters in New York.

LIMA MAN TAKES OVER STATE POST

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15—Roderick P. Dien of Lima took over one of the best paying jobs in state government today and announced that as superintendent of banks he would strive for "efficient administration" and "to provide such help as needed by state banks."

This is not a political appointment, the usual sense of the word, asserted the 38-year-old former president of the National Bank of Lima. He succeeded Frank H. Squire of Elyria in the $10,000-a-year post. Squire resigned and will take over the presidency of a Tiffin bank.

BRITAIN ANSWERS SAFETY ZONE NOTE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 15 — British sources stated today that Great Britain had replied to the protest of 21 American republics against violation of their neutrality "safety zone" by taking the position that the zone was unenforceable under international law.

The British reply was in the form of a note transmitted to the Panama government for presentation to the permanent Pan American neutrality committee, it was said. Its contents were withheld.

Replies to the United States government on its protests against the diversion of mails and the bringing of United States vessels into contraband control points in the war zone are expected to go forward soon.

MINE BLAST CAUSE REMAINS MYSTERY

Bodies of 91 Victims Removed Over Week-End.

By The Associated Press

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 15—An officials of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Co., operators of the Bartley No. 1 coal mine in which 91 men were killed by an explosion last week, said today the cause of the blast "may never be known."

Amid investigations of the disaster, R. E. Salvati, company vice president, said no reason had been found for "the ignition of gas" which set off the nation's worst mine accident in 12 years.

After days of digging, rescue workers recovered all 91 bodies and brought them to the surface over the week-end.

Rescuers found that Ernest W. Hoops, 41, one of the victims, wrote down his own funeral arrangements while coolly awaiting death from deadly gas that filled the mine after the explosion Wednesday.

He scribbled on a scrap of paper:

"If we don't make it out, darling wife, please take my body down home (Jackson, O.) and take Rev. Spears to preach my funeral. Ernest."

The note was found in his cap.

The death total dropped from 92 to 91 when one of the miners, Perry Britton Atwell, 32, discovered yesterday his name had erroneously been listed among those killed.

MARION WOMAN BELIEVES BROTHER SAFE

Having received no word today in response to a telegram sent Friday, Mrs. Stephen Sterling of 228 Thew avenue said at noon she was certain her brother had escaped the Bartley, W. Va., coal mine tragedy. She said although he had been working on a shift which would have placed him in the mine at the time of the explosion, he evidently had been transferred to another mine since she last heard from her family. The telegram was sent to her parents in Tazewell, Va.

AID TO FINNS

the opinion that this government should proceed with extreme caution in aiding Finland.

Both expressed sympathy for the Finns but added that this nation could hardly maintain its position as a neutral if it gave active aid to Finland.

Prime Minister Risto Ryti of Finland reported recently that his country's exports were sufficient to pay only a part of the cost of arms and munitions needed to fight the Russians and that the time has come when foreign credit is essential to us."

Credit Extended

This government's export-import bank has already extended $10,000,000 of credits to Finland for the purchase of farm surpluses and civilian supplies in this country.

Broad questions of national defense policy share congressional attention this week as the senate appropriations committee takes up the house-approved deficiency appropriations bill.

The $264,000,000 measure, carrying funds for activities authorized under President Roosevelt's proclamation of a national emergency, will be examined with an eye to the policy involved in the neutrality patrol and the establishment of the so-called "safety belt" around the western hemisphere.

LEGION DUGOUT FIRE CAUSES $150 LOSS

A fire blamed by firemen on an overheated furnace resulted in damage estimated at $150 at the American Legion Dugout on South High street shortly before noon.

Flames burned a section of flooring above the furnace before extinguished by firemen from the Central station. Fire Chief McFarland reported the entire interior was damaged by smoke. The fire was discovered by neighbors who saw smoke coming from the building.

FACES ROBBERY CHARGE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15— Returned from the Panama Canal Zone, William Curtiss, 19, of Summerfield, O., was held today in connection with the robbery of a Lower Salem bank last July 20. He was arrested in the Canal Zone Jan. 7 and brought to Columbus in custody of U. S. Marshal Charles H. Sisson.

BURGLARS STRONG MEN

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., Jan. 15—Burglars didn't take any chances by lingering at Elbert R. Myers' bakery to crack his 300-pound safe. They lugged it with them. In it, Myers said today, were $20, records and accounts.

THESE MEN ACCUSED OFWORKING FOR REVOLUTION

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, released this photo in New York when he announced the arrest of 18 members of the "Christian Front" on charges of conspiracy to create a revolution, overthrow the government and set up a dictatorship. He said this picture was seized in a raid and shows, left to right: Michael Vlk, Macklin Boettner, Francis Michael Joseph Malone, John Albert Viebrock and John Anthony Graf.

PHONE CO. TO DROP SPECIAL CHARGES

Marion, Nearby Towns Affected by Commission's Order.

Permission to eliminate extra charges for telephone desk sets and hand sets in the Marion and several nearby exchanges was granted to the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. today by the state utilities commission, The Associated Press reported from Columbus.

A 25 cent monthly extra fee for desk sets and an additional 25 cents fee for hand sets was abolished in the Marion exchange and an extra fee of 25 cents a month for hand sets was eliminated in the Green Camp, Harpster, La-Rue, Prospect, Morral, Richwood and Waldo exchanges. The Marion exchange was the only one in the group where the extra charge for the desk sets had not been abolished previously, company officials reported.

At the same time the utilities commission approved establishment of a $1 fee for connecting or transferring telephones in the Marion exchange.

J. T. Carliss, general manager of the telephone company here, said the company applied for permission to eliminate the extra charges and to create the connecting charge several weeks ago so that the telephone rates could be made more uniform. He estimated that approximately 1,500 subscribers on the Marion would save either 25 or 50 cents a month under the new plan.

The new rates will become effective Feb. 15 and will first appear on statements received by subscribers about Feb. 20, Mr. Carliss reported.

Mr. Carliss said that in applying for permission to abolish the extra charges, the company hoped that wall sets and desk sets could be gradually eliminated in favor of the more modern hand sets. New subscribers will be given an option of the three types of telephones while those now using wall sets or desk sets will be charged a $1.50 service fee if they wish to change to the hand-set type, Mr. Carliss explained.

BRITAIN TO AIR CABINET CHANGES

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 15 — The authoritative press association said today Leslie Hore-Belisha definitely would make "a personal statement" in the house of commons tomorrow on his departure as war secretary from the cabinet.

It added that Prime Minister Chamberlain "then will reply, giving for reasons for the cabinet changes" which were announced Jan. 5, causing repercussions throughout the nation.

REPUBLICANS PLAN LINCOLN DINNERS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — Chairman John D. M. Hamilton will lead the Republican party's Lincoln day "kickoff" for its 1940 campaign with an address at a $6.50-a-plate dinner in New York City.

Announcing a partial list of dinners to be held in connection with Lincoln's birthday anniversary, Feb. 12, the Republican national committee called them the beginning of a "fight to restore to the nation a government based on Americanism, sense and sound finance."

Gov. Bricker of Ohio was scheduled for a Cincinnati address.

REPUDIATES HUBBELL

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15—City Councilman Herbert S. Bigelow today repudiated efforts by Charles Hubbell of Cleveland to circulate petitions in his behalf as a candidate for the Democratic nomination as governor. "This man has been a great annoyance to me," Bigelow commented. "I have had nothing to do with him and I am not running for governor."

CLYDE MAYOR DIES

General European War May Follow Invasion Threat

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

If Herr Hitler is indeed preparing to invade Holland or Belgium or both, it may mean the beginning of the general European war which the world has been fearing.

However, it shouldn't be overlooked that this may be a deliberately engineered German-Russian scare. The purpose of such a thing might be two-fold—(1) to stop the neutral low countries and Scandinavia from aiding Finland against the Soviet, and (2) to warn the neutrals not to pursue their tendency to sell supplies to the allies for cash instead of continuing to send them to German for barter trade.

Reasons for Move

Should the German offensive develop it presumably would be intended as the preliminary to a heavy assault on the allies a little later. There are numerous reasons why the Nazi high command might undertake an operation against Holland and perhaps against Belgium. Among them are these:

1. Control of Holland would give the Germans extremely desirable air bases for operations against England, against the British blockade and other shipping. It might presage the blood-bath from the air which the Nazis have threatened so often. Such control also would provide invaluable submarine bases.

2. The Germans may feel impelled to haste in preparing for major operations against the allies because of the growing aid from the Anglo-French brotherhood for Finland. There is a danger to Germany's right flank if this assistance continues.

Beat British to Draw

3. Increasing pressure of the blockade on Germany, coupled with her failure to secure the expected war supplies and foodstuffs from Russia and the Balkans.

4. The possible wisdom of striking before the British get their full expeditionary army in place along the western front.

5. The fact that the ground and waterways have been frozen thereby making military operations somewhat easier. It is reported, however, that a thraw has set in.

6. Possibly the idea of securing permanent control of the mouth of the Rhine in Holland. German would give much for that.

The idea of a drive against Holland seems rather more reasonable strategically at this time of year than an adventure into Belgium. It is hard to believe the Nazis unless pushed to it, would attack Belgium in winter.

If the Germans do attack Belgium, and if youthful King Leopold is as good a soldier as was his gallant father, the invaders will know they have been in fight before they get through.

PETITION DISMISSED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—The national labor relations board dismissed today a petition by the Westinghouse Employes Association, Inc., for certification of employe representatives at the Mansfield, Ohio, plant of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. The board said in an election in December, 1,445 workers voted against the association and 943 in favor of it.

MANUFACTURER DIES

By The Associated Press

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 15— George A. Seaville, vice president and general manager of Stromberg Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co. and a cofounder of the Dean Electric Co. of Elyria, O., died here yesterday after a four-month illness.

STORM

several calls were received, a plate glass window, already slightly cracked, split clear across at 5 p. m. and undoubtedly will have to be replaced.

At the Lower Pharmacy at 424 West Center street an awning broke loose and a part jabbed two holes in a plate window at the side early last night.

Posts Snapped

A large sign, supported by two posts, four by four inches each, fell when the posts were snapped off shortly after 1 p. m. at the Lautenslager used car lot on West Center street shortly after 1 p. m. The sign fell on two cars nearby, but did only minor damage.

Among incidents reported to the police were poles and lines down at Buckeye and Davida street and also a pole down on South Main street.

At The Star building on North State street the wind broke a large sheet-iron smoke stack from its moorings but failed to loosen it completely.

The brick chimney was blown from the home of the caretaker at the fairgrounds yesterday afternoon.

Signs knocked loose, police reported, were: Irey Millinery store, Feature Frock store, Glenn Irey garage, and Big Three Beer Co.

At the F. W. Delaney residence at 377 Park street the wind smashed in a large glass window and ripped the shade in two about 7:30 p. m. with damage of about $10.

Greenhouse Damaged

The Ed Cochert greenhouse at 429 Jefferson street was damaged to the extent of $25 or $30 by the wind breaking out glass.

A door at the residence of Mrs. Ethel Evans of 259 South Prospect street was blown loose.

The city service department reported fallen limbs blocked Erie and Jackson streets for a while. The county and state road departments had no complaints except of a limb across State Route 231 near Morral.

Marion and vicinity were not alone in feeling the effect of the storm.

Thunder showers came at some points. Gales at Toledo reached 52 miles an hour, in Cleveland 47, in Columbus 43 and in Cincinnati 40. Ice piled 35 to 40 feet high along Lake Erie near the Ohio-Michigan border. Streams flooded by melting snow closed Route 20 in Washington county and Route 146 in Guernsey county.

In the east shipping along the seaboard was disrupted but the rain brought replenishment of New York City's water supply, which had been rapidly dwindling.

Six persons were killed and a number hurt when tornadoes struck 15 miles east and 80 miles southwest of Montgomery, Ala., yesterday. Several houses were demolished.

The government weather bureau forecasts snow flurries and colder tonight with Tuesday generally fair.

PRISONER TAKES TRIP

By The Associated Press

CARROLLTON, O., Jan. 15— The Carroll county grand jury recently recommended that the old wooden ceiling of the county jail be replaced with one of steel. Because the change was not made, county authorities today sought Lesetr Barstow, 20, Delroy youth charged with larceny. Barstow Saturday night removed a board from the ceiling of his cell, entered the jail attic, then lowered himself with a rope made of sheets. Five other inmates made no attempt to flee.

ITALIAN PLANE DOWN FAR SHORT OF GOAL

Long Distance Flight Ends Off Brazil Coast.

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 15—The Italian embassy announced that the Italian airplane seeking a new world's distance record landed on the Brazilian island of Fernando Noronha at 12:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. Marion time) today about 5,000 miles short of her goal in Patagonia.

Under command of Col. Angelo Tondi, the Italian plane took off from Rome at 5:22 a. m. (2:30 a. m. Marion time) Sunday.

She had been in the air 34 hours and 23 minutes and had covered about 4,400 miles of her projected flight at the time given for the landing.

The mark fell far short of the world record of 7,162 miles established by two British naval air force planes Nov. 5-7, 1938, in a flight from Ismailia on the Suez Canal to Darwin, Australia.

Tondi reported by radio earlier in the day that his fuel was escaping through a leak.

YOUTHS

Clifford Swartz, 46, of East Mark street, charged with cutting Florence Swartz, Dec. 22, with intent to wound. Returned to county jail.

The arraignment of Charles A. Boughton, now of Mansfield, on a charge of abandoning a woman about to become a mother was deferred until later. The charge was filed Oct. 13 by Edith Ruby Boughton. Mr. Boughton had previously posted bond.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD CHANGES REPORTED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15—Reorganization of the state industrial commission continued today with promotion of James H. Davis as supervisor of the legal section and appointment of Don C. Wiper as commission secretary. Both are Columbus residents.

Commission Chairman Will T. Blake said the appointments were in line with a program to improve the department's efficiency.

Davis, former Cleveland lawyer, succeeded C. C. Core in the $4,000 a year position. Core, supervisor since July 3, 1936, will remain with the department in an undetermined capacity. Davis has been a legal section referee for 10 years.

FLAMES KILL 300 IN JAPANESE TOWN

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Jan. 15 — Fire raging uncontrolled through Shizuoka, southwest of Tokyo, was believed today to have taken 300 lives and destroyed 1,000 homes.

Domei, Japanese news agency, said half of the city, the center of Japan's tea shipping industry, had been destroyed four hours after the fire was discovered.

An airplane pilot reported he felt the heat of the conflagration flying over Shizuoka at a height of 4,500 feet.

FIRES, ACCIDENTS CAUSE 18 DEATHS

Woman and Son Burn in Farm Home.

By The Associated Press

Fires and traffic accidents caused 18 deaths in Ohio over the week-end.

Mrs. Paul Beight, 34, and her son, Jack, 16, burned to death in their farm home near Youngstown. Her husband and four children escaped.

While his parents— were away, six-year-old George Bainter died in flames at their Washington C. H. home. Three-year-old Rose Marie Leiter was burned fatally at Ashland by a kerosene blaze resulting from efforts to light a stove.

Flames all but wiped out the tiny village of Newcastle on the Belmont-Monroe county line near Barnesville. Starting in the home of Alfred King, the conflagration swept through two buildings of the R. R. Van Horn general store, the six-room home of Delbert Thomas, five-room home of Orville Milhoan, the Irvan Moore home, a garage, a vacant store building and a barn.

Only one building was left standing. Barnesville firemen were called but lack of water prevented them from fighting the flames. They estimated damage at $30,000.

Collisions caused most of the traffic fatalities.

Mrs. Conrad Baldulf, 63, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Baldulf, 37, were injured fatally in a collision of two automobiles near Port Clinton.

Two cars collided at Ravenna, killing the nine-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Purdy of nearby Wayland.

A New York Central passenger train struck an automobile at Toledo, killing Henry Anderson, 54, and his grandson, Lawrence Johnson, 17, Negroes.

Two persons were burned to death at Toledo as flames destroyed their automobile after it crashed into the rear of a truck. One victim was identified as Roland Gruber, 18, of Toledo.

said, "upon terrorism and ultimate demoralization of communities to attain their objective. First of all they aimed at terrorization of Jews—all Jews. At the same time, according to their plans, they were to seize communications, transportation systems, customs and postoffices."

He said the leaders of the alleged conspiracy were John F. Cassidy, Brooklyn head of the "Christian Front," and William Gerald Bishop, leader of a "sports club," known as the "Country Gentlemen," secretly operating behind the front.

Gave Nazi Salute

Cassidy, he said, was saluted Nazi-wise and addressed by the followers as "fuehrer."

Hoover disclosed that much of the evidence against the alleged conspiracy was obtained with long-range cameras operated by FBI agents from vantage points around the training camp of the organization at Narrowsburg, about 100 miles upstate in New York.

There, he said, the men were drilled in the use of arms and the making of bombs.

While the FBI pursued the investigation with all seriousness, Mayor LaGuardia scoffed at the damage that might be wrought by the alleged revolutionaries.

"I don't think the United States government is in much danger from 17 guys like these," he said.

Cassidy has professed himself to be a follower of principles outlined by Rev. Charles Coughlin, but the Michigan radio priest last night "roundly disavowed" any connection with the "Christian Front" whose members are under arrest.

Father Coughlin charged that "this so-called Christian Front" was of Communist, or bundist, origin.

1939 FARM PARITY BELOW EXPECTATION

Funds Fall $8,600,000 Short of Full Payment.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — Whether wheat, corn and cotton farmers will receive parity payments as large as they expect on 1939 crops will depend on congress' action in making up a $8,600,000 deficiency. As matters stand, they face a four per cent cut.

The appropriation for parity payments on 1939 crops was $212,400,000. The agricultural adjustment administration, sizing up conditions last year before the planting season opened, estimated 1,500,000 farmers would take part in the program. They drew up their plans for parity payments on that basis.

But when the planting season arrived, 1,650,000 farmers decided to take part in the AAA program. So the parity appropriation fell $8,600,000 short of meeting the payments.

Congress may remedy the situation either by putting a $8,600,000 item for this purpose in one of the early deficiency bills or by adopting a resolution transferring this amount into the 1939 parity fund from the $225,000,000 appropriated for parity payments on 1940 crops.

Unless congress acts, AAA officials said today, payments to cotton, wheat and corn participants in the program will be 4 per cent less than had been planned.

Something About a Soldier

DISPATCHES from the Finnish war zone hint of valuable lessons being learned, even though the instruction is forbiddingly grim. Like the war in Spain, used as a proving ground for the latest equipment in mass slaughter, the Russo-Finnish war is watched by the experts.

They noticed, no doubt, what was reported to have happened to Russian soldiers dropped from planes to land in parachutes behind the enemy's lines. The soldiers were killed by sharpshooters on their way to the ground. So much for one of the red army's most publicized ideas.

They must have noticed too what happened to motorized equipment—trucks, armored cars, tanks—in many sectors. When they failed they proved more of a handicap than no tanks at all. This seems to most laymen to be the standard characteristic of military idea men. They refuse to figure the possibilities of failure.

They undertake each new bright thought on a postulation of success, ignoring the possibility of bloomers, rarely bothering to figure out what the enemy is going to do while they are preparing to extinguish him. That parachute attack, for instance, was one of the dandiest stunts anyone ever thought up—on paper. But even pacifists wondered what was going to prevent sharpshooters from using the jumpers as targets.

The Law's Long Arm

OKLAHOMA'S prison system will have to make the most of Carlton B. Chilton's escape in 1913, says Gov. Bricker in effect by continuing his predecessor's refusal to give up the Ohioan. There is nothing to be gained by sending a man who has proved he is not an habitual criminal by a quarter of a century of straight living back to prison. The law's long arm should be controlled by intelligence.

The governor's decision is popular—popular because public opinion finds it much easier to temper justice with mercy than the letter of the law allows. Under the law, of course, Chilton must finish his sentence, unless pardoned, before he can possess a clear record. But the law sometimes is too inflexible for its own good. This is such a case.

As Gov. Bricker suggests, an outright pardon would do more to improve the spirit and morale of penal institutions in this instance than persecution. If the purpose of prisons is to rehabilitate as well as to incarcerate, then the case should be closed.

Throw Out the Bum!

DON'T look now, but baseball's creeping back on the sports page. Players are having their teeth pulled.

This is the way each new season gets started—in a dentist's chair. The lads who didn't do so well the previous summer tell the doc they think it's that one "ay ack ere" where their finger's touching and the news is heard 'round the world.

There's nothing easier than pulling teeth to start a comeback and put the business office in a hole on its notion that a salary cut is in order. Dizzy Dean heard he was going to be cut from $20,000 to $10,000 and had two teeth out—zip! For another $5,000 he would go toothless.

But Dizzy's doc didn't play the game. He said it would be months before Ole Diz would know whether losing two teeth was going to make him worth what he thinks he's worth—and maybe it wouldn't make any difference at all. Robber!

Passing Thought Item

COUNTY and independent fair managers of Ohio in proposing to have all schools closed at fair time will have the kids behind them to a boy.

Nothing stimulates interest in education like a holiday, particularly an unexpected one. Something was lost when public education outgrew the flexibility of the one-room school, where Teacher could say—and sometimes did—"Let's have a holiday."

College graduates, to hear them tell it, never appreciated education more than on the occasions when some saintly professor failed to meet his class, or let it out early because it happened to suit his fancy. If every modern, streamlined school system had half a dozen extemporaneous holidays to bestow at will throughout the school year it would be a master stroke of public relations. Pupil morale would soar on the wings of expectancy like a bird.

British Campaign To Repeal U. S. Limitations on Credit Believed Planned in London.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—The British are known here to be preparing a clever campaign to get away from U. S. credit restrictions. They want to promote repeal of the Johnson act and modification of the cash and carry provisions of the new shipping law. U. S. officials are advised about it.

Paul Mallon

The bait that will be offered will be large scale promises to buy American farm products—a sort of an international pikey - minnow of rainbow hues, but not without hooks.

The Downing street thinkers know full well the influence of oppressed farmers in legislative halls and are working on the assumption that if they let it be known they could buy more cotton, pork, etc., in case credit barriers were lowered, they will get powerful domestic forces working their way. It may not turn out as well as they hope.

Present Situation

Unfortunately for their purposes, the agriculture department has already looked into the foreign exports situation and found that Anglo-French war policies are responsible for their failure to buy more—not lack of credit facilities.

The Allied blockade has cut off all former American markets in Central Europe. Britain on the other hand is plowing up her grass fields for planting and is rationing to conserve food. She has adopted policies of getting what she needs in farm imports from Empire nations, from European neutrals who might otherwise ship to Germany and from Latin-American countries like Argentina (wheat and beef) where the exchange situation is favorable to her. From these three sources most of her needs can easily be met.

Furthermore, dollar purchasing value of sterling has fallen one-fifth in the last 18 months, which makes American products cost Britain more than in some other neutral countries. The French have licensed imports, fixed prices, joined Britain in banning American apples and pears. There is even a prospect that Britain may sell France some of her stored cotton rather than cause the French to spare their exchange from purchases of airplanes and needed industrial materials.

No one here believes the Allies can make that pikey-minnow look good enough to get a bite.

No Signs of Weakening

Mr. Roosevelt and his men show no signs of weakening on the credit matter. Personally, they appear to be perturbed because the question may be seriously presented in a campaign year before this session of congress is very far along the way.

If the war turns suddenly destructive and the Germans bomb civilian populations in London, they may find some administration officials ready to listen to their pleas, but not now.

Peace Plan

A peace plan is forming in the back of the President's mind but he does not want it called a plan. It has a long way to go yet, and in its present stage, seems nothing more than a general notion about dropping tariff and financial barriers and removing economic pressures in the future post-war world.

Mr. Roosevelt's new foreign correspondent, Myron Taylor, assigned to the Vatican beat, is carrying these ideas abroad, but apparently not in concrete form. The President also discussed them with churchmen.

Only development expected is a move to educate the world to this method of orderly living.

Banking

Senator Wagner's committee is doing what it can to avoid the investigation it was ordered to make into central banking and fiscal policies—and will probably succeed. As Senator Adams of Colorado told the committee in executive session: "If we are going to have a full investigation of all these things now, let's get a large room at St. Elizabeth's (psychiatric hospital) so they won't have to take us very far when they come to get us."

Competition

One senator claims to have a list of 27 Democratic presidential candidates or prospects now sitting in the U. S. senate. He says he had 30 a week ago but has eliminated 3 so as to be conservative. He thinks it proves definitely Mr. Roosevelt can not get third term nomination against such heavy local competition.

The Treaty With Japan

How It Started and Why It Is Ending.

Japan has done a pretty thorough job of aping the West, even to the establishing of health clinics, like the one in Tokyo at which this youngster is pictured.

On January 16 a treaty of commerce and amity between Japan and the United States will be terminated by the American government.

The notice of abrogation sent to Japan nearly six months ago was the first knowledge most Americans had that any special treaty existed between this country and Japan.

Abrogation brings to a near climax the most fantastic trade relations of Americans in our short history. Why was a treaty necessary in the first place and why is it now being abrogated? These questions are answered by Morgan Beatty in two articles of which this is the first.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—About cherry blossom time 86 years ago in far off Japan a miniature railroad train steamed around a circular track, heavily laden with Japanese noblemen.

The cars were too small to climb into, so the passengers mounted the roofs and hung on for dear life. Most of them seemed grimly determined to master the marvels the white men had been trying to force upon them for 300 years and more.

There were two reasons for their ludicrous performance:

1. The black warships of the American gentlemen-at-arms, Commodore Matthew Galbraith Perry rode menacingly in the nearby harbor, symbols of danger for these kimono-ed noblemen.

2. The Japanese for the first time were really worried about their equality, whereas before that time, they were cocksure all other races were barbaric and inferior.

Look into the relations of the Japanese with any other race or nation, from the earliest times to now, and you will always find the Japanese to be equal or superior in everything they do—preferably superior.

It was the determination to be equal that built modern Japan. It was that same determination that produced her wars. And it's that same quality that governs her relations with the United States.

Back in 1854, Commodore Perry covered the mailed fist of his naval power as best he could. He had brought along his miniature engine and cars to impress the Japanese with the force and power of western civilization. His ships of war he kept battened down, in hopes he wouldn't have to use them.

Perry's mission was entirely practical and hard-headed. Aware that Japan lay athwart our trade route to the Orient, he wanted trade, coaling stations, and help for shipwrecked sailors.

Perry did his work well. Where the Spaniards, Portuguese and English had failed, this gracious American seaman won the day.

By 1859, the powerful Shogun of Japan (Japanese for military dictator in those days) signed a treaty which blithely set out to establish between Japan and America "a perfect, permanent, and universal peace, and a sincere and cordial amity."

The Short End

Under the forbidding guns of warships that taught the Japanese the meaning of modern warfare, treaties with other western powers followed, and as was to be expected, Japan got the short end of the stick. The foreigners insisted on clauses limiting Japanese tariff duties, and they demanded extra-territoriality — that device of the western world that gave foreigners the right to evade Japanese law, and win trials in their own courts on Japanese soil. The westerners argued that they could hardly be expected to conform to bizarre Japanese codes and customs.

Most of the westerners were interested in profits, not friendship, and they acted accordingly. Only the United States felt impelled to carry out the aims of that original treaty and give the Japanese something close to equal rights.

Naturally the Japanese hated the "foreign devils." Within 20 years of Perry's first visit, the treaty-making Shogunate had been shoved aside, and the Emperor of Japan had been restored to power. The Japanese were ready to drive the barbarians into the sea.

But they didn't do anything of the kind.

They listened, instead, to a cunning and powerful counsellor among their own people. "Wait," he cautioned, "wait!"

"Make our country secure by military preparation . . . wait for the time of confusion in Europe, which must come eventually . . . then we may become the chief nation of the Orient."

Wait the Japanese did, and patiently. The foreigners objected to their laws, so the Japanese reformed their courts along western lines. The foreigners hated their social customs, so they remodeled them to fit western forms, although they did not at first change the social order fundamentally.

The nobility gave the people a constitution, although they kept the emperor cleverly immune to man-made laws. One of their houses of Parliament was even named "House of Representatives," a gesture to their freedom-loving friends, the Americans. But, most important, they introduced modern German methods in their army and navy, and set themselves out to become a world military power.

The rest of the world smiled tolerantly at the regeneration of Japan. But, by 1894, the Japanese were ready to strike powerful blows for empire and equality. Ten years later the world was no longer amused, but deeply concerned. The world's attitude changed with the changing stature of Japan.

And America's attitude changed with that of the rest.

U. S. Urged To Delay Imposing an Embargo on Trade Between This Country and Japan.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

AFTER Jan. 26 congress will have the right to impose an embargo on trade between the United States and Japan, and there is no doubt that former Secretary Henry L. Stimson speaks for an influential and well informed body of opinion when he urges congress to exercise that right. The question is as delicate as it is complex. In arguing, as I shall venture to do in this article, that this is not the proper time for congress to exercise its right to impose an embargo, I do not differ from Mr. Stimson in his moral judgment of the Japanese aggression or in his conception of the political responsibilities of the United States.

Walter Lippmann

But I do think he is mistaken in defining the issue as if our own choices were to acquiesce shamefully in the immediate conquest of China, or to challenge Japan's power to continue the war by such drastic measures that we shall be seeking to encompass the downfall of the military party. There is, I hope, another alternative, which is to postpone the crisis.

For it seems to me that in view of the total situation in the world, it is not now expedient to take action which will bring Far Eastern affairs to a crisis. It seems to me wiser, providing the Japanese do not themselves precipitate a crisis, to seek a modus vivendi which will postpone a settlement of the Far Eastern question.

Lack of Naval Force

The compelling reason, I believe, for not precipitating a crisis in the Far East is that the United States do not now possess a two-ocean navy, and there is no prospect of our being able to construct such a navy within the next five, probably within the next ten, years. There are at present only two navies in the Pacific, the Japanese and the American, and though the American navy is somewhat stronger than the Japanese, it is by no means strong enough to control the Pacific Ocean. The United States should never, I believe, adopt a policy which might lead to war unless it can command the seas where the war would be fought. In the absence of, say, eight British capital ships based on Singapore, the Japanese navy is capable of producing a very uncomfortable situation in the Philippines, the Netherlands Indies, and in the whole western Pacific generally.

But even if the American navy is capable of holding the Japanese navy in check, the operation would engage virtually our whole naval power. We should have no navy in the Atlantic ocean. Now there is a great war in the Atlantic. In this war Nazi Germany and its ally, Soviet Russia, have not yet struck with all their force against Great Britain. They may not strike. If they strike we may believe that they will fail. But we have no right to assume that they will fail. If they succeed in destroying the British naval power, we must not place ourselves in a position where our navy may be so deeply engaged in the far Pacific that we have no naval force in the Atlantic with which to guard our interests in this hemisphere.

So I submit that it is unwise to precipitate a crisis in the Far East as long as Britain's naval power is challenged in the Atlantic, as long as Britain is unable to send capital ships to the Pacific.

Mr. Stimson holds the opinion that a spectacular challenge to Japan by a congressional embargo would not lead to war with Japan. He says that "the very last

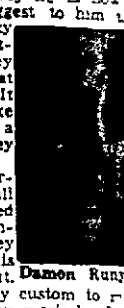
Tom Dewey Gets New York Hint of Going Away Twice a Year To Relax by Working.

By DAMON RUNYON

WE SEE where one of our favorite figures in public life, District Attorney Thomas Dewey, is back home from another rest. This is the second rest he has taken in less than 12 months. Last summer he went out to Michigan to rest. This winter he went down to Georgia.

We must remind Mr. Dewey he is not in the national arena and suggest to him that voters outside New York City may feel this is too much resting for a man only 37. They may wonder why a chap that young needs any rest at all. It might be difficult to make them understand it is just a New York habit Mr. Dewey has acquired.



Damon Runyon

New Yorkers will understand it, all right. They will realize, too, that if he pursued the average New Yorker's conception of resting, Mr. Dewey must have returned from his resting plumb tuckered out. New Yorkers are required by custom to rest a terrific work of resting. They work harder resting than they do at working.

The average New Yorker who can afford it takes a couple of weeks out of every year for a rest, which is theoretically a vacation from work. But the rules call for him to devote that period to a routine of labor that would cause a Missouri mule. We have often watched New Yorkers work at their resting.

IF YOU told a New Yorker the opportunity for rest without work are limitless in New York City, he would think you were kidding him. In the first place, he would know the rules impose upon him the obligation to get away from home to do his resting. In the second place, he would consider New York altogether too quiet for a rest. Tranquility is no part of the average New Yorker's idea of resting.

Of course, as compared to his activities when he is away from New York for a rest he is resting practically all the time he is in his home town. He performs his daily stint, whatever it may be, goes home to a quiet dinner, an occasional movie, or stays in listening to the radio and retires fairly early, getting plenty of sleep. Now and then he may go to the theatre and afterward to a night club, but not often.

The average New Yorker is not a night club hound, though he has the finest and the most famous night clubs in the world at his elbow. That is, he is not a night owl hound until he gets away from home. Then he starts breaking down the doors of night clubs to get in, which is why you will always find plenty of night clubs in places frequented to any extent by New Yorkers taking a rest.

RIGHT now you will find the various winter resorts of the land thickly infested with New Yorkers who think they are resting. Those who are working like blue blazes. Some of them are down in Florida, straining their backs muscles pulling in big fish. Some of them are up in the mountains breaking their legs on ski runs or contracting chilblains.

Probably by this time the good Baron Arthur Kriendler is out in California on a dude ranch for a rest, acquiring a permanent headache from wearing a two gallon cowpuncher hat. This does not become him and endangering his health trying to ride horses which almost hate him. The good Baron Jack Kriendler is typical of the average New Yorker in the way he works at his resting.

He is one of the owners of a nice, high class restaurant in New York City where it is always warm and bright, and where of an evening one can view many of the visiting celebrities and hear all the local gossip. In close range are a manner of amusements and things of intellectual interest.

If the good Baron wishes to view a work of art, he has only a few blocks to walk to one of the great art galleries of the world. If he cares to read a book, one of the best of the public libraries is not far away.

THE labor that is his means of livelihood is not exacting nor arduous. He just stands around giving off large hellos to the trade. He has a comfortable bed in an apartment a few stairs over the restaurant where he may go after his daily toil reading and getting a good rest. But that would involve the element of complete repose in resting, which is the last thing the average New Yorker wishes to avail himself of.

So away goes the good Baron Jack Kriendler to the dude ranch for his rest, far removed from the fine surgeons just around the corner from him when he is in New York, and like all New Yorkers, when he returns from his resting he looks as if he had been hit through a knot hole, or had just escaped from a hospital ward.

He always says he is well rested, but he says it in a hollow tone that causes all who do not happen to know where he has been to tell that he looks terribly overworked.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

The sudden disappearance of Jerry Finney, a free Negro, from his Columbus residence 15 years, raised suspicions against unscrupulous slave hunters and aroused a considerable fuss.

Finney on some pretext had been taken to the office of an acting justice of the peace across the Scioto river into Franklinton. His name was inserted into papers certifying he was an escaped slave and he was forcibly delivered to a professional slave hunter.

But Columbus residents, upon learning of the Negro's plight, raised funds to purchase his freedom. When Finney finally was restored to his family he had contracted tuberculosis and he died shortly afterward.

War Prisoner Problem

By The Associated Press

BERLIN—"The enemy remains the enemy. The German people have been told in a campaign to prevent citizens from contacting several hundred thousand war prisoners taken by the German army.

Treason is the charge placed against Germans who smuggle letters or other written matter to prisoners or who assist escape. Any contact whatsoever, without permission, is punished.

Prisoners must be isolated, in the official view, although this is difficult, for they are being worked in fields and other places where they must be close to people who are not their guards.

Prisoners are held responsible for the escape of much military information across front lines during the World war. Women who unwittingly sympathized with prisoners are held up as the greatest accomplices. In this war, they may not offer prisoners food or drink. Some, during the World war, even accompanied prisoners to the frontier, protecting them enroute through their knowledge of the language and geography.

More than 107,000 out of 2,526,922 captured escaped abroad between 1914 and 1918 carrying information and strengthening the enemy.

Track's Man of the Decade—Owens

Negro Star Noses Out Cunningham for Mythical Title.

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

NEW YORK—Jesse Owens, the slender, tan-colored negro speedster, wins our nomination as track's Man of the Decade in one of those photo-finishes over the sturdy, untiring runner of the Kansas plains, Glenn Cunningham.

Owens was like a blazing comet that burst suddenly across the skies and then fell from view. Cunningham was with us throughout the decade, a consistently great performer who ran his fastest race late in the Thirties.

LAST IN A SERIES

While the Kansan's feats were limited to middle distance footracing, the Ohio State university ace shone as a sprinter, hurdler and broad jumper. Owen's margin was increased, too, by Olympic triumphs, something denied Cunningham although Glenn broke a world record in 1936 as runner-up in the 1,500 meters.

Owens' chief claims to fame rest with his 1935 Big Ten championship performances and his 1936 Olympic triumphs.

No Respect for Records

On a May afternoon at Ann Arbor, Mich., the Ohio State flash broke three world records and equalled another.

A year later he was the brightest performer in an Olympiad replete with stars. The first athlete in a dozen years to score a triple, Jesse romped off with the 100 and 200-meter sprints, won the broad jump, and ran on the record-breaking 400-meter relay quartet.

Shortly afterwards his short and brilliant amateur career ended when he was suspended by the A.A.U. But now, four years later, Owens still holds seven world records. These are for 100 and 220 yards, 100 and 200 meters, 220 yard and 200 meter hurdles and the broad jump.

Cunningham's marks show him as the most consistent miler of all time. The "iron horse" has run almost as many miles under 4:10 as all his competitors combined.

At times during the Thirties Cunningham was conceded to be the world's best, indoors and outdoors, at either the mile or its metric equivalent, 1,500 meters. He was the favorite in almost any race he entered from 800 to 1,500 meters.

Until Sydney Wooderson's 4:06.4 mile Cunningham held the world outdoor record at 4:06.8. Glenn

Toledo Board Official Hits Plan for Shorter Schedules

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15—Grant Murray, vice president of Toledo's board of education, launched an attack today in the Ohio High School Athletic association's plan to curtail football and basketball schedules and to eliminate late-season gridiron "bowl" games.

Murray also advocated taking over of the parent body by the state department of education, or the formation of a new association by schools in the larger cities and those having well-rounded athletic programs.

"All large schools," Murray declared, "are constantly bothered by rules set up by small town principals who compose the Ohio state board."

"Many of the larger schools," he said, "have assumed obligations * * * the building of stadiums, baseball diamonds, running tracks, tennis courts, etc., * * * in the expectation of paying off this indebtedness through their only available means, revenue from football.

"Should they now be forced to curtail their football schedules below the 10 games many of them play, the resulting decrease in income, in many cases, would make it impossible for them to meet payments on their bonded indebtedness and to support such non-paying sports as tennis, golf, swimming, basketball and track. The debt payments must be met, so the non-paying sports would suffer or be eliminated."

"Why should the board cut out post-season football games, and still allow the state basketball tournament at Columbus?" he asked.

Murray also objected to the fact that smaller football playing schools, many of which he said had little chance to be invited to "bowl" games, would be permitted to vote on a referendum to ban the post-season events.

KIRKPATRICK TAKES 2ND IN SUNDAY LOOP

Defeats Wyandot Vaults, 28-25, in Armory Game.

Kirkpatrick bumped the Wyandot Vaults out of second place and took over the post with a 28-25 win against the Upper Sanduskians during yesterday's session of the Sunday basketball league at the Armory.

Ralph's Snappy Service dribblers continue to head the league, rolling to the fifth consecutive victory, 32-16, at the expense of the Midway Restaurant quintet. In the third schedule game, Earl Dairymen forfeited to Co. D, 166th Infantry, when they couldn't place a full team of eligible players on the floor at a game time. Using several substitutes the Dairymen topped Co. D, 33-24, but nevertheless got credit for a loss in the standings.

Center Yeichner of the Kirkpatrick crew was the heaviest scorer of the afternoon. He chalked up 14 points to help his club to a victory, which actually was netted by the margin of three charity tosses. Standings and summaries:

Landis Breaks Up Detroit's Farm System, Frees 92 Men

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who always has the last word in organized baseball, has spoken again, and as a result the far-flung farm system of the Detroit Tigers is a mere shambles.

Landis, in a report yesterday, wrecked the intricate "chain-gang" setup of the American league club and warned all baseball executives of even more severe penalties for similar rules infractions in the future.

He charged Detroit and affiliated clubs used "fake agreements," "false certificates of club relationships," "cover-up" deals and similar practices in operation of a farm system.

The nine-month investigation brought the following action:

1—Free agency was awarded 92 players, valued at close to $500,000, including pitchers Paul Trout, Lloyd Dietz and Steve Rachunok, infielder Benny McCoy and outfielder Roy Cullenbine of the Detroit club. The other 87 were scattered among 15 minor league clubs.

2—All player transfers, except on waivers, between Detroit (including Beaumont of the Texas league and other subsidiary and affiliated clubs) and Toledo (American Association), Fort Worth (Texas league) and Lake Charles (Evangeline league), or their subsidiaries or affiliates, are prohibited for three years from the present time.

3—The Chicago Cubs were fined $1,000 for contacting McCoy and Cullenbine before the inquiry was completed in the interest of their future employment in case they were declared free agents. The St. Louis Browns were fined $500 for contacting McCoy under similar circumstances.

4—The free agencies granted the 92 players will not become effective until Jan. 29 and no club may contract them before that date.

5—Cleveland of the American league was ordered to pay $2,000 to Walter Carson, New Orleans Southern Association outfielder. Toledo, Detroit affiliate until recently, sent Carson to New Orleans and was paid $2,000 for his contract. Toledo, in turn secretly gave this amount to Cleveland.

Officials of the Tiffin club of the Ohio State league said three players made free agents by Landis no longer were with the club. They were: James Lawrence, John Mandreger and John Fugal.

AGGIES MAY NOT COME

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15—Texas A. and M. probably will be forced to refuse the Oct. 5 spot on the Ohio State university 1940 football schedule because of previous commitments, it was reported reliably today.

Bowlers Have Busy Week-End

Inter-City Matches, Tourney Play and "Ma and Pa" League on Schedule.

Inter-city matches, roll-off of previously postponed league contests, competition in the doubles and singles of the city tournament and the regular weekly duels in the Ma and Pa league comprised to give local bowling enthusiasts a big week-end.

Galion, Bucyrus, Shelby, Mt. Vernon and Lima furnished the opposition for local clubs in the inter-city clashes. Local quintets broke even in a pair with Galion keglers, Disbennett Giants of Marion holding a 39-pin lead of the Fairway Club, while the local Buettin Sales were edged 14 pins by The Old Corner squad.

Hottest contest of yesterday's big program was the 2,648 to 2,546 advantage taken home by the Gerhart Pure Foods of Bucyrus, at the expense of the local Guckenheimer Bourbons. Swope's Cafe bowed before the Court Cafe of Lima, 2,843 to 2,672, while in the only women's match on the local boards the Marion line-up walloped feminine visitors from Shelby, 2,158 to 1,986. Only one Marion team was on the road yesterday, the tourists losing, 3,059 to 2,929 to the Moose All Stars at Mt. Vernon.

Lions club pin-topplers copped two of three games against The Marion Stars in the fight for first place of the Office league.

Sunday's barrage in the city tournament saw several hefty tallies posted. G. Baker and E. Greenland posted a combined total of 1,119, a total of 192 over their combined averages. H. Smith shot a 593 in the singles division for 116 points over his average.

F. Messmore's double-century series, 214-223-248—685, set the scoring pace in the Ma and Pa league. Coupled with his partner's 425 it gave the duo 1,110 the loop's best tally. Results follow:

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT

Estate of Harriet Sanders, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that John H. Bartram has been appointed and qualified as Executor of the estate of Harriet Sanders, late of Marion County, deceased.

Dated at Marion, Ohio, this 3rd day of January, A. D. 1940.

OSCAR GARY, Probate Judge, Marion County, Ohio.

Case No. 14990.

Bowling

Parish Moves Into Tie with Groll's in Craftsman League; Yellow Moves Up.

Parish Dairy moved into a first place tie with the Groll Furniture at the finish of Friday night matches in the Craftsman bowling league. Honors were split—Ritz's 258, Baldauf's 655, Old Fort Feeds' 1,031 and Bowes' 2,—[illegible] setting the pin-toppling pace.

Yellow's entry won two of three for the White team to extend a first place lead to five full games in the Ladies City circuit. Mrs. Winterstellet's scores of 198 and 534 topped the individual efforts and team laurels were divided with the White outfit rolling the best single round of 594 and the Yellow entry topping the loop with a 1,627 total.

PFANN

Then, having commenced his work at Oxford, he proceeded to land on the rugby team and to star on an English championship lacrosse squad. Between times (there are always between times in this kind of a career) he played a bit of cricket and tucked away a trio of memberships in Oxford's great student societies.

The Yank came back from Oxford to start a law practice in New York City. He did okay there, too. A member of the state and federal bar, he held the position of assistant United States district attorney for the southern district of New York from 1931 to 1937. He married Betty Talmadge Wyckoff in 1929, and is now the father of two sons. At the moment he is a well established attorney with the law firm of Edwards & Smith in New York. He also finds time to teach physical education at Swarthmore college.

He's Still Modest

"Pfann poohs-poohs his collegiate greatness now, but he retains an enduring affection for Cornell. He belongs to the Cornell Club in New York and serves as an alumni trustee of the university."

Although widely known among older Marion residents the great star and scholar is little more than a legend among younger local sports followers. The reason, perhaps, is that he did not return to make his home here after graduation from high school.

He has, however, visited here frequently with an aunt, Mrs. Charles E. Anderson of 324 Delaware avenue.

2-DAY INSTITUTE OPENS AT ASHLEY

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Jan. 15 — The two-day Ashley Farmers' Institute opened this morning in the school auditorium. Principal speakers will be Mrs. Paul Young of Rocky River and Sam H. Plumer of Marietta, a newspaper columnist.

S. C. Power of the Ashley school faculty served as chairman of this morning's session. Mrs. Young was scheduled to speak on "The Children's Hour" and Mr. Plumer to talk on "Shall Young People Stay on the Farm?"

Mrs. D. J. Hershey, president of the Ashley Parent-Teacher association was to preside this afternoon.

A three-act play, "Sulphur and Molasses," will be presented tonight at 8 under the direction of Miss Florence Leas. Taking part will be Harper Bartlett, Mrs. Reuben Reid, Miss Virginia Main, Miss Frances Houston, Max Kohler, Mrs. Dick Nichols, Mrs. Dale Good, Miss Frena McCurdy, Cecil Gardner, Ruth Knauber, Paul Warner, Mrs. Cleon Reynolds, Edwin Mouser and Mrs. Harper Bartlett.

Harold Shoemaker, vice president of the institute, will preside Tuesday morning and Frank Riley will preside in the afternoon. Nolen P. Richmond, president of the institute, will preside for the closing session Tuesday night, which will include the report of the nominating committee.

Both the length and width of customers' feet are measured at the same time with a new implement for shoe stores.

OWENS

ran the fastest mile in history two years ago, a 4:04.4 feat indoors. And he still is going strong.

Owens, as track's top figure of the Thirties, doesn't measure up to Finland's Paavo Nurmi, the runner who dominated the Twenties.

Gave Track A Push

Nurmi gave foot-racing its greatest all-time stimulus. He set records from the mile, in 1923, to the marathon, in 1932. At one time he held all important records from one to seven miles. He scored two Olympic triumphs in 1920, rang up four victories in 1924 and then came back in 1928 to gain another.

Nurmi revolutionized theories of pacing and training. He often carried a stop watch and ran his race to the split second as he had laid it out. He came to this country in 1925 and cracked 28 world records in his first 22 races. He probably rates as the No. 1 trackster of all time.

OVER A THIRD OF A MILLION
USERS OF OTHER GASOLINES
HAVE changed to
NU-BLUE SUNOCO.
There's a reason!

NO OTHER GASOLINE IN THE WORLD - NEW OR OLD - IS MADE LIKE NU-BLUE SUNOCO

By a vote of 9 to 1
NU-BLUE SUNOCO
was acclaimed equal or superior to extra priced
gasolines
in road performance!

A majority vote like this is almost unanimous, yet it was the verdict of more than fourteen hundred users of extra priced gasolines from Florida to Canada who protested Nu-Blue Sunoco in their own cars!

Not only made possible by a revolutionary new process but it is also a pure petroleum product

When we say that Nu-Blue Sunoco is made possible by a revolutionary new process, we mean just that.

Our engineers have worked incessantly for years to produce this new miracle of gasoline chemistry. New refineries have been constructed. Millions of dollars have been invested.

Notice its plus power... its gliding, sliding smoothness. Check its knockless performance... its economical mileage... its quick starting.

For best results use Nu-Blue Sunoco full strength! Don't dilute it with any other gasoline.

STOCKS RALLY, THEN DECLINE

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Among First To Lead Parade to Lower Levels.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—The stock market tried to put a foot forward today but stumbled after a mild advance at the start.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were among the first to step down. These were followed by Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, General Electric, International Mercantile Marine and Loft.

Standard Brands was the liveliest, managing to edge within touching distance of a new 1939-40 peak.

Revived European war tension apparently provided scant speculative stimulation.

Foreign markets backed away. Bonds were ragged, but commodities, especially grains, did better.

Earnings statements for American Telephone, Wilson & Co. and a number of others, although reflecting the bulge in the final half of last year, gave no great impetus to the shares of the companies concerned.

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Jan. 15—Inquiries were being received today for domestic wools but very little was being sold. Buyers were reluctant to pay prices quoted on domestic wools. Holders of spot fleeces were asking 45-47 cents in the grease for combing three-eighths and quarter blood graded bright wools, but they were getting no interest from buyers at these prices. Country packed lots of mixed three-eighths and quarter blood grades of bright fleece spot Boston basis, selling occasionally in small volume at around 42 cents in the grease.

DOLLAR WHEAT BACK ON CHICAGO MARKET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 — Dollar wheat returned to the Chicago futures pit today as the market shot up more than two cents a bushel in its strongest rally in about two weeks.

More threatening Europeans news was one of the factors encouraging a return to the buying side. Purchasing orders at times disclosed a scarcity of sellers which were attracted only by higher bids.

The fact that grain merchants were required to increase bids to producers to four cents over supplies of some grades also attracted attention.

An eastern baking concern advanced the bread price 1 cent a pound.

Wheat closed 1¾-2¼ cents higher than Saturday, May $1.00¼-½, July 98¾; corn ¾-⅞ up, May 58⅜, July 58¾; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Divorce Actions

Decree granted — To Florence Marie Porter from Ralph A. Porter; grounds, neglect; Mrs. Porter represented by Homer E. Johnson, granted custody of minor child and defendant ordered to pay $4 weekly for support of child.

Under advisement—Divorce action brought by Clyde H. Blair against Etta Mae Blair was taken under advisement by Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young following hearing Friday. Mr. Blair sought a decree on grounds of neglect and Mrs. Blair, charging neglect in cross-petition, sought alimony and injunction to restrain plaintiff from molesting her.

Asks New Trial

Motion for a new trial has been filed by the defendants in the suit brought in common pleas court by Frank B. Drake against Charles Drake and others. Finding in favor of the plaintiff who sought to set aside a deed to a portion of an 80-acre tract in Claridon township was returned Saturday by Judge A. V. Baumann of Findlay. Homer E. Johnson and French Crow, counsel for the defendants, prepared the new trial motion which asserts that the finding is not sustained by sufficient evidence. George T. Germ, W. P. Maloney and Bernard C. Maloney represent the plaintiff.

VETERAN PRINTER TAKEN BY DEATH

F. R. Bowman Dies Suddenly at Upper Sandusky.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 15—Frank F. Bowman, 68, dean of printers here, died of heart trouble Saturday night following an illness of a few hours. He had worked Saturday at the Daily Chief-Union and was taken ill at supper.

Mr. Bowman, a native of Upper Sandusky, had been a printer 50 years. He started his work on the Democratic Union in 1890, under R. D. Dumm, publisher. Following Mr. Dumm's death the paper was sold in 1902 to Pietro Cuneo and the name changed to the Union Republican. Thirty-four years ago Mr. Bowman went with the Daily Chief company under the editorship of H. A. Tracht.

Mr. Bowman was born Jan. 28, 1871, to Lawrence and Mathilda Burgette Bowman. He was never married.

Friends may call at the home until 12:30 p. m. Tuesday when the body will be removed to the Bringman & Co. funeral home for funeral services at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Robert C. Bowman, minister of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the sermon and the services of the Elks' lodge will be conducted by R. E. Prettyman of Marion Lodge No. 32, P. B. O. Elks. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

TWO CHILDREN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Suffer Minor Injuries at Baker and Church Sts.

Two children, Martha Butler, 5, and Raymond Butler, six months, suffered minor lacerations and abrasions Saturday night when a car driven by their father, George Butler of 780 Grove street, figured in a traffic accident at East Church and Baker streets.

They were treated at a physician's office and released.

Police said the Butler car collided with a car driven by Paul Thomas, 15, of Prospect who told officers the accident occurred when he pulled into the center of Church street to make a right turn onto Baker. The Butler car was westbound on Church. Both cars were badly damaged, police reported.

A car driven by Omar Goodrich of 519 Mound street was slightly damaged last night in a collision with a car driven by Clinton Foster of near Marion, police reported. The accident occurred at East Center and State streets.

TEACHERS HEAR TALK ON AFRICA

Doctor Relates Experiences with Tribes at County Education Meeting.

Experiences in Monrovia and Liberia where he was on assignment to clean up social diseases and break down primitive tribal customs were related by Dr. Joseph Elliot, English medical scientist, at the Marion County Teachers' association public meeting Saturday morning at Central Junior High school.

More than 70 visitors were present in addition to the 130 members of the association.

Dr. Elliot's talk proved of such interest to the audience that in response to an expressed wish, Dr. Elliot returned in the afternoon and continued his discussion for about an hour and a half.

He talked on "Where Human Leopards Prowl." The "human leopards" referred to in the subject, was a society in Liberia so under the influence of witchcraft that its members had the people believing that its members were under some divine protection, he explained. The members told the people that in the guise of leopards they could commit any misdemeanor, including murder, and that when officials gave chase they transformed themselves back to human form and thus escaped capture and punishment.

Dr. Elliot said that he and a Chicago scientist were hired by one of this country's large rubber companies and the United States government to go into Monrovia and Liberia and literally "clean up" conditions both medically and from a standpoint of smashing tribal customs that held the superstitious people in a strong grip.

The talk was illustrated with many colored slides.

E. F. Banning, superintendent of the Pleasant Township school and president of the association, presided. The LaRue High school band, directed by Richard Downs, furnished music.

Paul Furniss, superintendent of the Agosta school, gave a report on the recent teachers' meeting in Columbus. Reports on the talk given at the meeting by Sherman Rogers, former associate editor of Outlook magazine who is now working in the field of economics, were made by Milford Schmidt, vocational agriculture teacher at the Pleasant school, and C. B. Casto, vocational agriculture instructor at the Agosta and Green Camp schools.

Future association meetings will be discussed at a monthly supervisors' meeting tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Banning. Wives of superintendents will be guests.
